EXPECT SOUTH
TO BACK FARM
RELIEF BILL

Cotton Democrats May Throw Support Toward McNary-Haugen Plan
BANKERS MAY GIVE AID

Will Try to Reduce Cotton Acreage by Total of 25 Per Cent

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1926 by the Post Pub. Co.
Washington — Cotton may give the backers of the McNary-Haugen bill a warmer support than they have hitherto had from the southern Democrats. And a coalition of the west and south has always been more or less feared by the opponents of the famous equalization plan which has threatened to put asunder the Republican party in congress.

The Coolidge administration is keeping a watchful eye on the whole situation because it is realized that if a remedy can be provided for the cotton emergency, there will be less chance for the McNary-Haugen idea to win support there.

That's why though the south is Democratic and can hardly influence
the results of the congressional elections this year, there is a keen appreciation that the administration will be saving itself much trouble if it does what it can to protect the cotton farmer.

VISIT IS SIGNIFICANT
The visit of Senator Robinson, Democratic leader, to the White House is significant of the importance that the cotton question is going to play in the immediate future. Secretary Hoover of the department of commerce, who was in the White House called Saturday, was inclined on the other hand to believe that the storm would pass before any serious political effects might ensue.

Thus the proposal that has been made whereby the bankers would extend loans with the condition that the cotton planters agree to reduce 25 per cent in each case where the application for a loan is made may solve the situation in the view of administration officials. The over-planting of cotton areas is regarded as the basic cause of the depressed price and it is argued that since storage and credit facilities are available and credit
can be extended against the stockpiles on hand, there is no such danger as might face the producers of crops like corn or wheat.

EXPECT CONGRESS DEBATE
The next congress, nevertheless,
will unquestionably see a debate on the practice of the government in making official estimates on the cotton crop an activity which has had a direct bearing on the fluctuations of prices. The Arkansas senator feels that it is next to impossible to make an accurate estimate of crop yield and that an over-estimate causes hardship to the producers. He contends that the practice should be stopped altogether or the government's machinery for doing the job revised and improved.

The Department of Agriculture, however, has stood staunchly by its figures, taking the position that overestimating is something for which it cannot be held responsible and that it is better to have an estimate that is at least disinterested than to subject
the cotton farmer to the manipulations of those who would otherwise make forecasts.

SUBPENA STEPHENSON IN KLAN GRAFT CASE

Connie And Hubby Part Divorce To Be 'Friendly'

New York—(AP)—Constance Talmadge, screen star, and her Scotch husband of seven months, Captain Alastair William MacIntosh, have separated. Miss Talmadge is on her way to Hollywood and Captain Mac Intosh is about to return to England.

The separation, the screen star's friends say, is amicable but permanent and will be followed by a divorce
equally friendly just as she divorced
her first husband, John Plagiolon, a wealthy New York importer. The reasons she gave for that divorce were
that she wished to continue her screen career and found she could not do so successfully while wedded. The same reasons influenced her again,
her friends say.

Miss Talmadge and Captain MacIntosh met in Paris four years ago, and then were married Feb. 27, 1926, at the home of Jean De St. Cyr, in San Mateo, Calif. In June they went to Europe on what they called their honey-moon tour. They returned in August. Rumors then that were to separate were denied.

LETTER THEFT
IS REPORTED
IN HOAX CASE

Ransom Demand Is Stolen
from Files of Los Angeles Police

Los Angeles, Calif.—(AP)—Theft of a letter from police department files
which demanded $500,000 for the safe return of Alvin Karpis, McPherson Monday sent detectives into a new phase of the investigation of the evangelist's kidnapping story as the pastor's preliminary hearing on conspiracy charges entered the third week.

The letter was sent from San Francisco May 24, to Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, mother of the Angelus temple pastor.

It was supposed to have been written by kidnappers who, Mrs. McPherson declares, forced her into an automobile at Ocean Park beach on May 18
and held her captive for five weeks, part of the time in a desert shack in Mexico near the Arizona border. The letter was signed "The Avengers" and threatened the life of the evangelist
unless the money was paid.

FAILED TO APPEAR
In compliance with the demands an enquiry was sent to a hotel in San Francisco where he was to have been approached by the kidnappers. The enquiry was to be recognized by an Angelus temple badge. Police prepared a trap for the senders, who failed to appear.

The loss of the letter is the second case of disappearance of documents evidence during three investigations of the case.

SECOND DISAPPEARANCE

In the second inquiry, grocery lists
were lost which the state contended
were in the evangelist's handwriting and showed that she had spent the first ten days of her mysterious absence at Carmel-by-the-Sea, an ocean resort, with Kenneth C. Ormiston, former temple radio operator. The grocery lists disappeared in the grand jury room.

With the investigation of the theft of the letter occupying a part of the state forces, District Attorney Keyes indicated he would call more Arizona witnesses Monday in an effort to prove his charge that Mrs. McPherson was not in the custody of kidnappers when she arrived in Arizona. Thus far the prosecution has been unable to establish her whereabouts during the three weeks prior to her reappearance at Douglas, Ariz.

strates that alleged drunken drivers

form of recklessness is extinct in this country if court sentences of severe nature have any effect as a warning

Judge Orders Grand Jury to Give Full Consideration
to Evidence

Indianapolis—(AP)—Judge James A.
Collins Monday instructed the grand jury in the Marion-co criminal court to give its fullest consideration to charges of corruption in Indiana politics made by Thomas H. Adams publisher of the Vincennes Commercial.
Judge Collins appointed Attorney General Arthur Gilliam and Ralph Kane to assist in the investigation. Will Remy, Marion-co prosecutor, requested their aid. Adams has declared in his charges that D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan, exercised a corrupt influence on high political leaders. In his charge to the grand jury Judge Collins said that Stephenson would be among the witnesses called by the prosecuting attorney. Stephenson is now in the state prison at Michigan City serving a life sentence for the murder of Madge Oberholzer. Kane who was appointed as assistant to Remy Monday, was also assistant to the prosecutor in Stephenson's murder trial.

Prosecutor Remy said he would not make public that a person he would call but that Adams and Stephenson certainly would be among those brought before the grand jury.

BORAH ASKS INFORMATION
Adams said Monday he had received a request from United States Senator William E. Borah, for information as to the charges of political corruption which Adams has been making.

Charges which have been made by Adams and a group of editors associated with him in an investigation, alleged misconduct by officials of the state were called officially to the attention of Remy and Judge Collins Sunday by Arthur L. Gilliam, attorney general of Indiana. The latter took cognizance of them in a telegram to A. R. Erskine, of South Bend, president of the State Bar association, which was sent in answer to one of the attorney general Saturday in which Erskine called upon Gilliam to have the charges brought before an investigating body.

Judge Collins announced that steps would be taken Monday to comply with Gilliam's request to Collins "to instruct the grand jury to investigate Adams' charges."

EXPECT SUBPENA
One of the first moves Monday was expected to be the issuance of a subpena for Stephenson to appear before the grand jury, inasmuch as Gilliam
said:

"Since the whole structure of Adams'
charges seems to depend on testimony of a state prison convict, he will be brought before the grand jury
under lawful order of the court."

The charges which the grand jury will be called upon to investigate and which have been made repeatedly by Adams are that certain public officials in connection with Stephenson.

ASSURES FINANCIAL CREDIT TO EUROPEANS

Kansas City, Mo.—(AP)—Assurance of American financial credit for Europe
when it sets its house in order was given on behalf of the administration
Monday by Garrard B. Winston, under-secretary of the treasury, speaking before the bankers club of Kansas City.

Stabilization must be obtained first
by these governments he said, but he predicted that "Europe would soon again be in a sound position," and stabilization be accomplished.

"If the time should come when credit is sought for the program of stabilization in France, Italy and Belgium," he continued, "or if it should be desirable to float a loan in this country, it would be clearly to our interests that this help be extended."

"Siamese Twin" Sisters
Die of Single Illness

Minneapolis—(AP)—Only one organ was owned in common by Lucy and Bessie Medich, "Siamese twins," who died within a few minutes of each other, at a local hospital Saturday night. That was the bladder, it was discovered at the postmortem at the hospital.

One, Lucy, died of pneumonia and free pus in the chest cavity, according to the staff physician who made the examination. Bessie, her sister, joined her from birth about five months ago, died of shock and blood poisoning.
With the exception of the bladder,
which served both bodies every vital organ of the body was complete in each individual.

This possession of two almost complete sets of internal organs permitted

FIVE-DAY WEEK IS GOOD BUSINESS IN U. S., FORD THINKS

New York—(AP)—Business sense, and not humanitarian motives, induced Henry Ford to put the five-
day week in force in his factories,
he explains in an interview with Samuel Crompton, published in the current American Bankers Association Journal.

"The working men—who are the largest buyers in the country, cannot without leisure have time to cultivate a higher standard of living," he reasons.

"Mr. Ford is a strong advocate for cash business and to 'have the banks pay interest to us rather than pay interest to the banks.
Likewise he desires installment buying to the extent to which the custom has grown in this country.
"Installment buying has been useful under certain circumstances," he says. "It may be a method of saving and may stimulate saving but the thing has gone too far now."

GOVERNOR OF PORTO RICO IN LABOR DEBATE

Confers With President Green
of Island Possessions of U. S.

Detroit—(AP)—The arrival Sunday
of Governor H. M. Towner of Porto Rico, to confer with William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, centered attention in the federation's annual convention Monday upon two resolutions touching upon administration of the island possession which still are in the hands of the conventions committee on resolutions.

Governor Towner was presented to President Green Sunday by Santiago Iglesias, president of the Free Federation of Working Men of Porto Rico,
and secretary of the Spanish section of the Pan-American Federation of Labor.

He said before his conference he had not heard of the resolutions, one of which requested creation of a congressional commission to investigate conditions in Porto Rico and the other to transfer the island administration
from the war department to the department of the interior. The report of the committee on resolutions was the special order of business in the afternoon session Monday.

Y. M. C. A. DOORS OPEN

The doors of the Detroit Y. M. C. A. were opened Monday to a spokesman for the federation. Acceptance by John P. Frey, president of the Ohio state federation of labor, of an invitation to address the weekly meeting of the Detroit Ministerial association in the central Y. M. C. A. building, paved the way for an exposition of the spiritual aims of the American Federation of Labor in the building in which William Green, president of the federation had been scheduled to speak Sunday, until his invitation was rescinded last week by the association's board of directors.

The minister's invitation to Mr. Frey came through the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America under whose auspices President Green spoke Sunday at a "mass meeting of citizens of Detroit" at the First Congregational church.

have been the largest single month of business the company has ever had,

ARREST TO CHURCHMEN
IN MEXICAN STRUGGLE

Mexico City—(AP)—Dispatches from Iguala, state of Guerrero, say seven Catholic priests and three laymen have been arrested at Chilpana and started for Mexico City under military escort supposedly charged with seditious activities in connection with the religious situation.

The two were children of Mr. and Mrs. N. S. Medich, South Bend, and it is expected that the bodies will be taken to that city for burial.

They were fastened together by a narrow band at the hips, the heads
being at opposite ends of the double body which was only about 22 inches long from the top of one head to the top of the other.

LEGION OPENS CONVENTION IN EASTERN CITY

Eighth Annual Convention
Finds War Veterans
Storming Philadelphia

Philadelphia—(AP)—Governor Pin-chot, welcoming the delegates of the American Legion to Philadelphia on behalf of the state of Pennsylvania, Monday urged the delegates to the legion convention to stand up as good Americans for clean elections.

Just before the governor addressed
the convention a message of greeting from President Coolidge was read in which he expressed his gratification
that the American legion was throwing its resources into the "important work of arousing our citizens to take part in elections."

"WANT CLEAN ELECTIONS"

Governor Pinchot said there were two kinds of acts against liberty—
force and cunning. One of the counting attacks, he said was the refusal of citizens to vote.

"We want clean elections," he said,
"and elections that are free of control of money. Throw yourselves in to the war of peace with the same spirit as you did into the war of arms."

The convention is being held in the vast auditorium of the Sesqui-Centennial exposition, which was filled. A half dozen bands kept the delegates
in a happy mood.

National commander John R. Mc-Guire called the convention to order
but business breezed along in true military fashion.

The Nebraska delegation presented to Commander McGuire a bill to be used in place of a gavel.

Amid the sounds of bugles, drums
and greetings by former comrades, thousands of delegates marched from railroad stations and steamship docks
to their headquarters in the Atlantic building. Medals that told of deeds of valor on the battle fields adorned the breasts of many.

Women, wearing brilliant red overseas caps and flowing capes mingled in the hosts of khaki blue, gray and orange colored uniforms.

BUSY WEEK AHEAD

A busy week is ahead of the delegates. Among other things it will elect a new National Commander and decide whether the 1927 convention
shall be in Paris.

Miami is conducting a lively campaign for the 1928 convention. Attained in white flannels, orange-colored overseas caps, white shoes and walking sticks, the southerners march through the streets with all sorts of banners setting forth their claims.

"Miami may be down, but she's never out," reads one of the banners.

Police Seize Slot Machines and Illicit Liquor in Eisch Place

Armed with search warrants, police led by Chief George T. Prim late Saturday night swooped down on a padlocked slot drink parlor, at 1501
N. Richmond-st., confiscated three slot machines and seized a pint of alleged illicit liquor and five bottles of alleged beer, it was brought out in municipal court Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. William Eisch were named codefendants in warrants sought by the chief.

When the couple appeared before Judge Theodore Berg a fine of $25
and costs on the charge of operating three alleged gambling devices was imposed. The liquor case was adjudged until Oct. 27.

Chief Prim, Detective Matthew Mc-Ginnis and Motorcycle Patrolman Carl Radtke, participated in the foray. The evidence, police say, was found in the basement of the building where they declared, they found an improvised bar
and the illicit stock.

When demolished Monday the slot machines poured forth a collection of nickels, dimes and quarters, amounting to $53.31 which the court ordered paid into the police pension fund.

Court action on another raid made by the law enforcement group was withheld pending further investigation, it was reported.

SEARCH FOR GUN USED IN PATROLMAN'S MURDER

Two Rivers—(AP)—One of the Twin rivers was being dragged Monday for the revolver used in the murder of Patrolman Leo Roque Tuesday night.

Statements obtained by detectives working on the case prompted this movement. Believing that Chicago gunmen had a part in the slaying, detectives have turned over to Chicago authorities for handling comparison, notes they received Saturday. The notes threatened their lives if they did not stop the hunt for the slayer.

BULLETIN
New York—(AP)—The jury in the Daugherty-Miller conspiracy trial 65
hours after taking the case, was discharged Monday by Judge Julian W. Mack, without having reached a verdict.

New York—(AP)—Having already set a record for length of a deadlock,
a federal jury was ordered to continue consideration of the Daugherty-Miller conspiracy case Monday by Federal Judge J. W. Mack.

Charges of duress and "vile" language in the jury room were made in open court Sunday by a dissenting juror, who said that no verdict could be reached until the majority broke down the physical endurance of the minority.

When the jury was sent to bed in a hotel Sunday night it had been out for 50 hours after a trial service of five weeks.

ONE JUROR ILL
Other tribulation of the jury which took the case Friday night, were illness of one juror and failure to comprehend the relation of the law to the evidence.

Delays caused by the loss of two checks which the jurors asked to see.
After a long search the checks were found in a waste paper basket in the court room. Both checks were for $22,163.81 which Federal Attorney Buckner said were among the most important government exhibits and related to burned bank records.

told Judge Mack shortly after 10 o'clock Sunday night that he was ill
and if he had no rest, he probably would be unable to consider the case

NATION HAS SPENT HUGE AMOUNT FOR DISABLED SOLDIERS

General Hines Tells American Legion Convention of Care
for Veterans

Philadelphia —(AP)— The United States has disbursed more than $3,500,000,000 for the care of disabled veterans of the world war since the armistice, General Frank T. Hines, director of the veterans' bureau, disclosed here Monday at the eighth annual convention of the American Legion.

Death and disability compensation accounted for $2,200,000,000 vocational education has cost $543,000,000 term insurance disbursements totaled $345,000,000, and adjusted compensation expenses have been $54,000,000. He gave an illustration of the form of expenditures, adding that the government also has paid to veterans' departments a sum in excess of $300,000,000. Future obligations of the veterans' bureau, he continued, comprised $3,300,000,000 in term insurance active awards $3,100,000,000 in adjusted compensation awards and the commonly in commutation payments.

FAR-REACHING EFFECT
Liberalization of the veterans act by the last congress will have far-reaching effect, General Hines asserted. "It will bring comfort to many," and simplify administrative procedure and correct inequalities under the provisions of the previous law.

"Regardless of what has been done in the matter of legislation," he recommended that the "best policy in future procedure—at least during the coming year—would be to devote our energies in perfecting the administration of existing laws rather than to their future extension. Both the veterans' bureau and the American legion would then be in a better position to state accurately the full force and effect of existing legislation."

"So far as the bureau is concerned, our endeavors have been more in the direction of eliminating waste than exercising any other form of economy. The best evidence of this can be found in the study of the bureau's expenditures over the past three years."

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recommended by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. adv.

Silos are being filled as fast as the corn is cut, but it is expected that some farmers will not be able to cut all their crop before the first freeze.

WILSON SCHOOL TEACHES THEORY OF BEING THRIFTY

Teachers Emphasize Necessity of Saving Systematically

Enrollment in the thrift organization of Wilson Junior high school has been taking place this week and regular banking in Thrift Incorporated, the banking system used in nearly all of the schools in the city, will be started on Tuesday, Dr. M. H. Small, principal, announced.

Thrift clubs have been organized in the different classes at the school, and these groups will be distinguished by characteristic names, it was said. The emphasis in all of the groups has been for regular saving, not for spasmodic depositing in the school bank system.

The three essentials for real thrift, the principal said are earning the money, to save, wise spending, and knowing why it is desirable to save. It is through these three channels that the individual will avoid being either a miser or a spendthrift, he stated.

The child who is given a liberal allowance, by his parents probably will profit most through the wise spending of his money, the principal believed. He will eventually learn to realize the necessity of knowing how to spend as well as how to get more money. Stress has been laid on 100 per cent thrift in all of the groups. The amount is not essential, it was said, for it is the habit of saving that is to be desired and the child who saves a part of small earnings has received as much benefit as the one who saves a greater amount from larger earnings.

FACULTY WILL DISCUSS STUDY AT 2 MEETINGS

Similar Gatherings for High School Teachers Will Be Held Each Month

Directed Study and Supervised Learning will be the topic discussed at the two professional faculty meetings at Appleton high school Nov. 1 and Dec. 6, it was decided at a meeting of the committee in charge of the program. Miss Margaret Abraham will act as chairman of the committee.

The subject matter was organized at the meeting and subsequent meetings will be held to work out the details of the topic to be presented to the rest of the faculty. Meetings of a professional nature will be held each month and special subjects will be discussed by a selected group from the faculty. General discussions and questions will follow the formal program, it was said.

Members of the committee to work with Miss Abraham will be H. H. Helble, principal, Miss Catherine Spence, Miss Edna Benson, Miss Gertrude Thuss, Miss Ethel Neuhuis, Miss Ruth Saecker and Harry Cameron.

QUEEN MARIE IS FORCED TO LEAVE JEWELS BEHIND

Paris—(AP)—Queen Marie of Rumania, must travel to the United States without the $1,400,000 worth of jewelry, her personal property, which she had hoped to display during her sojourn in America.

The jewelry is in Moscow where it was deposited for safekeeping during the war, when the German armies overran Rumania. It forms part of a treasure estimated to be worth about $64,000,000.

When Marshal von Mackensen entered Bucharest and the Rumanian royal family took refuge at Jassy, the Rumanian treasure was sent to Moscow, then the capital of an allied state. Negotiations for the return of the property have been going on for several years but recently the Soviet government proposed that they retain it for another ten years.

WILSONIAN DELAYED BY SCHOOL VACATION

The first issue of the Wilsonian, the monthly paper issued at Wilson Junior high school, will not appear until the middle of this week because of the shortened weekend due to the schools closing for the meeting of the Northeastern teachers association in Oshkosh Friday. Material for the edition was almost ready on Thursday, Dr. M. H. Small principal, said, and work will be started by the printing classes in a few days. Armin Gerhardt, instructor in manual arts, has charge of the mechanical production of the paper.

CORMORANTS OBSERVED ON MISSISSIPPI RIVER

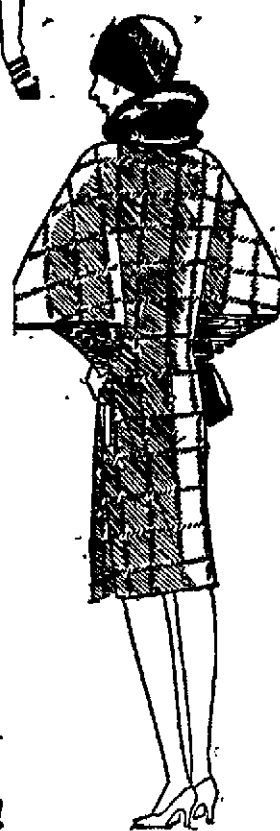

Prairie du Chein—(AP)—About 50 cormorants have been seen recently in the Winnebago bottoms of the Mississippi river near here by sportsmen, many of whom have been puzzled as to the identity of the bird. They rarely are seen on small bodies of water. The appearance of the birds in this vicinity has not been explained, though it is thought they may have become lost or been driven out of their path by storm in migrating south. They are common in the upper Great Lakes and further north.

ANOTHER CUT IN TAXES IS SOUGHT
BY CORPORATIONS

National Association of Manufacturers Heads Drive on Congress

Washington, D. C.—Regardless of repeated assertions by treasury officials that the time will not be ripe for a further tax reduction in the coming session of congress, leading trade associations are organizing a drive for an immediate cut in the tax on corporation earnings. The National Association of Manufacturers, the National Lumber Manufacturers and other organizations are joining forces in the movement. Under the plan proposed by the trade organizations action would be confined to a single amendment to the 1926 revenue act. This amendment, consisting of not more than a few words, would reduce the tax on corporation earnings from 13 1/2 to 10 per cent.

CORPORATIONS FEEL
AGGRIEVED

The corporations feel aggrieved because of the increase in the rate of tax on their earnings in the 1926 act. This increase was intended as a substitute for the capital stock tax which was repealed and did not mean any additional tax burdens for many corporations.

There was an increase, however, in the case of many corporations and their spokesmen contend that in view of the lightening of the burdens of all other groups of taxpayers in the act this inequality should be remedied as an emergency matter in this winter's session.

Answering the argument that there will not be sufficient time for the consideration of the tax bill at the short session, trade association officials point out that if no other matter were considered than the corporation earnings tax only brief hearings would be necessary.

MULTITUDE OF PROPOSALS

As against this theory, however, it is pointed out by others that the offering of any kind of a revenue bill would lead to a multitude of proposals for reductions in taxes.

The treasury position as reiterated last week in the address of Under Secretary of the Treasury Winston before the American Bankers' association at Los Angeles is that there should be at least a full year's trial of the 1926 revenue act and that there is no revision made until it is apparent that there will be a surplus in excess of $100,000 for several consecutive years in the future.

135 BOYS ATTEND
MEETINGS AT "Y"

Youngsters Hear Programs and Discuss Year's Activities

Approximately 135 boys attended the three membership "kickoffs" of the boys' division of the Y. M. C. A. Friday and Saturday. The younger boys had the largest attendance, 55, at their meeting Friday evening. Saturday afternoon 30 preps were present and in the evening 20 older boys attended the rally.

The boys were entertained by George C. Nixon and his "musical saw," the Blue and Orange orchestra, and the Onaway Island quartet, consisting of James and Robert Neller, Manfred Helms and Carol Richmond. A. P. Jensen, physical director of the association, outlined the program of his department for the year. John W. Pugh, boys' work secretary, did the same for the boys' department.

Separate organization of the three groups was discussed. No steps were taken, though the older boys decided to hold another meeting on Monday evening, Oct. 18 to elect their officers and start their organization. This was done because of the few boys present.

Membership buttons were given to boys who secured three or more members during the recent campaign.

DEMOCRACY NOT PROPER KIND OF RULE FOR MEXICO

Milwaukeean Says Natives
Are Too Ignorant to Know
What Is Good for Them

"I think the boycott by the Catholics of Mexico will finally kill the government and bring about a sane condition in that country," Attorney Frank Cross of Milwaukee, said in an address to the Holy Name society of St. Joseph church at the monthly breakfast in the church hall Sunday morning. More than 400 members attended Holy Communion in a body at the 8 o'clock mass and the meeting after the mass.

Mr. Cross told the history of the present religious strife and said that Mexico is now being ruled by a group of bolsheviks who "are copying their form of government from Russia."

"Mexico is not a country that can be satisfactorily ruled through a democracy," Mr. Cross declared, "because of the ignorance of the mass of the population. There are plenty of capable men to operate such a government but the natives are too ignorant to want the right kind of rule."

M'GILLAN HAPPY OVER FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

The public has assimilated the objectives of Fire Prevention Week to the point where the heartiest cooperation ever experienced by proponents of the idea greeted the occasion last week, it was reported Monday. The idea of setting aside one week a year as a reminder is gradually merging into the understanding that 52 weeks a year should be observed as a matter of common sense, Fire Chief George P. McGillan declared.

This Story Sounds Fishy But "Cub" Says Its True

"Moonshine you red over the top of the silage, after it has been packed, will make one of the finest foods for cattle ever known," an Outagamie farmer said this week. It increases the 'spiritual' value of the food and gives the cattle 'vim, vigor and vitality,' so essential. The amount of moonshine required or where to get it the farmer did not divulge.

Another farmer declared that instead of pouring moonshine on his silage he collected a portion of this well known and sometimes elusive beverage from his silo each year. He had two methods to collect the fery fluid but the farmer failed to state which had been most successful.

"The first year I heard of this system I didn't try it myself," the farmer declared, "but I happened to be visiting an old friend of mine in the northern part of the state and he gave me a drink of the—er—ah—stuff. It beats the 50 cent per shot 'gingerale', that I was getting from the Neighborhood Drug store and so I decided to try it myself."

"The first year I bought a large unglazed jug and placed in the bottom of the silo and packed the silage around it. The next spring I took the jug out and Lo and behold, there was five gallons of 'stuff.' I was afraid to take a chance on it myself so I fed it to the cows and chickens. My milk output increased 100 per cent and some of the chickens began laying twice a day."

BANNISTER PLAYERS APPEAR AT BLACK CREEK

The J. F. Bannister celebrated players will give the comedy, Mary's Aunt, at the auditorium at Black Creek Tuesday evening, for the benefit of the Fox River Valley Industry for the Blind. The dramatic troupe was organized this fall and has made engagements to play in several towns and cities in the Fox river valley.

Actors are Miss Myrtle Rogers, Mrs. Bertha Barry, Miss Betty Dost, Miss Duan Chamberlin, Miss Pauline Hoffman, J. M. Van Roy, J. F. Bannister, M. C. Roemer, and C. A. Hipp. The play is directed by Mr. and Mrs. Bannister.

The Fox River Valley Industry for the Blind is an association organized for the improvement of working conditions for the blind people in this district.

"Satisfied with these results, I tried another system the next year. I bought some copper coils and made small holes in one end and coiled it through the silo, packing the silage about it. I brought one end out of the silo and inserted it in a pail."

"About a month after the silage was packed, the juice began dripping from the end of the copper nozzle and I began reaping the harvest. I've never tried to drink any of the stuff myself, although I might try some sometime."

This farmer says that he has been using this system for several years and is waxing wealthy off the extra productions of his cows and chickens, to say nothing of the increased fertility of his land on which he has poured the liquid.

NO ONE INJURED IN TWO AUTO CRASHES

Four Machines Slightly Damaged in Smashups in City Over Weekend

A minimum of automobile accidents occurred in Appleton over the weekend, it was reported Monday. None was hurt in two minor crashes although a trifling damage resulted to four machines, police say.

Ray Menning, R. F. D. No. 1, Appleton, and Richard Brouillard, 502 E. Pacific-st, figured in one crash at Union-st and College-ave in which damaged fenders and a tall light marked the injury to the cars.

In a similar mishap at Appleton-st and College-ave, Arnold Triebner and Wenzel Brouck machines were damaged.

Play in Milwaukee
Mennings orchestra left Saturday for Milwaukee to play an indefinite engagement at the Midway cafe. The orchestra has been augmented to nine musicians for the engagement.

Higher Than the Woolworth Tower

The Woolworth Building in New York City, which towers 729 feet above the street, is the highest building in the United States.

If all the bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound sold in 1925 could be placed end to end, they would make a column as high as the Woolworth Building. And there would be enough left over to extend from Lynn, Massachusetts to Cleveland, Ohio.

In every little village as in every thriving city along the route, there are enthusiastic women who are glad to tell others how much Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped them.

POINCARÉ SHIFTS

Few topics of recent years have approached that of the debts owing to the United States in importance and in far-reaching consequences. Certainly few subjects have had as much discussion, both officially and unofficially. Opinion
has been very sharply divided.

After the senate approved a French debt agreement that the French parliament refused to ratify, the situation was very much of a deadlock and has remained so until the still unexplained shift in the viewpoint of Raymond Poincaré, French premier. Poincaré, while very friendly toward the United States, nevertheless has been stressing the balancing of the internal affairs of his country before giving concern to external matters.

Further than that, he resented the debt
agreement as too harsh upon France.
Now his attitude has changed to the point where he is willing to recommend that France ratify this debt agreement as already ratified by the United States senate, with certain oral reservations, which,
however will not affect the binding force of the debt agreement.

There is no doubt that there was great hope in France that the various demonstrations staged against Americans to protest the debt agreement would in some measure work for modification of the terms. This hope persisted, if the signs may be accurately read, until Secretary of the Treasury Mellon took his recent "vacation" trip abroad.

It will be remembered that the secretary, upon his return to the United States,
made the statement that he could see no reason for any change in the American terms to the foreign debt agreements.
Nothing, he said, would justify such a change. It appears that Poincaré has come at last to recognize the futility of argument and hostile demonstration. Indeed, the latter form of protest was foolish and ill-advised. It has hurt no one but France and has solidified American opinion against modification of the debt settlement in any way.

POOR MAN'S COURT

Litigants in a New York city court, often referred to as the "poor man's court," who have had to forego the full measure of justice to which they felt themselves entitled through lack of financial resources, will hereafter be assisted by counsel assigned by the Chamber of Commerce. The counsel will be volunteer and will cost the litigant nothing. The step is being taken by the Chamber of Commerce in an effort to nullify the effect of wealth in the courts and to provide the poor man with a method of getting his full chance before the law.

The step was taken as the result of an investigation which showed that thousands of worthy cases are permitted to go by default in the crowded municipal courts because of the inability of the litigants to pay for appeals, leaving a train of bitterness among a class who should not be permitted to obtain false views of American justice.

The plan follows a suggestion recently made by Charles Evans Hughes in an address before the Bar association and is one that has great merit. "You can appeal
the case," has been a hollow phrase to the people who had not the $5 to $25 to pay for the stenographic notes or the greater sums for the lawyers' fees to initiate an appeal.

It is, of course, an experiment, but one which should receive the commendation and support of everyone. It is a notable step forward toward the dissemination of a true concept of our democracy by the distribution of a complete and impartial justice. It will be necessary, of course, to exercise a certain amount of care to eliminate those cases where there is no

merit or chance of success, and on which no time should be wasted, either by the litigant or by the lawyers who are volunteering their services in behalf of the plan. The Chamber of Commerce is to be commended on a plan that has much to recommend it to every city.

THE LEVELS RISE

As Lakes Michigan and Huron were about three and a half inches higher in September than the low September stage of a year ago Chicago is making the best of it. The Tribune emphasizes again that
"the principal factor in the determination of lake levels is not the diversion at Chicago but the weather."

True enough. What the weather has done during the past quarter century has been to lower the navigation level of the lakes to a point where ships could barely make harbors and it was becoming apparent that cargoes would have to be lightened
with the resultant losses to lake carriers. The weather is an act of God which man has been unable to control. But Chicago, on top of this unavoidable weather withdrawal, has added an entirely selfish and avoidable human abstraction of another six inches.

Chicago behaves as though its six inches were the natural and inevitable withdrawal and the lake states should be attacking the weather man for withholding enough rain to make it up. Cheap and antiquated sewage disposal for Chicago first; then let the lake states make a treaty with Jupiter Pluvius if they like.

No doubt about it, the weather is helping the lakes to rise. But experience has shown that the weather will let them down again; and when that happens the lake area doesn't want Chicago's unnecessary six inches as an added aggravation.

FOR MEN WILL ARE BOYS

With her head writhing, crawling
mass of fantastic sea life, and her crew aglow with bizarre tales of the strange waters they had seen, the little schooner
"Blossom" has just come home.

The "Blossom," less than a third as big as the ship in which Columbus discovered America, was sent forth by a rich woman
of Cleveland, Ohio, to cull unknown
waters and islands and bring back rare specimens for her city's natural history museum.

The little schooner was gone for more than three years. Some of her men turned back, yellow with fever or mal de mer.
Mutinies aboard. Times of thirst and hunger. But the "Blossom" kept on.

Now she is home again. Captain George Finlay Simmons has exchanged the thrill of fighting sharks and jagged-toothed rip
fish for the thrill of lunching at tired business men's clubs and telling them of those three years upon a far-off sea.

He tells them of giant turtles that cap-
size boats as a whale might lash a canoe.
He tells of the graveyard of Mother
Carey's chickens where the bleached bones of thousands of birds stick to the spent lava of old volcanoes.

He is Robinson Crusoe and the entire Swiss Family Robinson. He is a modern Jules Verne to these noonday chicken patty eaters. He is Herman Melville with his white whale and crazed sea captain.

The noon hour becomes two, three hours, and still they listen. For men become great business powers, but at heart
they ever remain the boy who longed to be Crusoe's Friday, or one of the Swiss Family Robinson young, and who even today would change a bank director's chair for the crow's nest of a whaler.

BOOTLEGGING AS AN ART.

A bootlegger need not be a thug. He may be an artist. He may be an art dealer and thus make a double appeal to the spiritual need of his patrons. Thus a Fifth avenue, New York, art dealer was recently arrested and charged with violation of the liquor laws. He conducted a very exclusive business. Not only for his really splendid art prints but for his "side line"
of choice liquors, none of which was sold
until it had been chemically analyzed.

When a customer purchased liquor from this dealer he received also a copy of this analysis. Thus the customer was protected against poisoning himself and his guests. Hundreds of names of the most socially prominent persons in New York were found in his lists of prospects and customers. They paid the art dealer well for his certified booze, much more than they did for his authentic prints.

But in due time he made a misstep and was arrested and released on bail and his conviction is of course problematical.
Juries are not noted for their unbiased judgment of fact nor of the law when men are accused of satisfying the thirst of a large portion of the inhabitants of the nation. A bootlegger selling poison might get the limit but an art dealer, selling artistic Scotch and certified Cognac? That, indeed, is a different story.

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author
Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writer's names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

WHAT DO YOU KNOW ABOUT THIS?

In an address delivered to the American Public Health association this summer Dr. Livingston Farland, president of Cornell university, outlined under 10 headings what every intelligent person ought to know about health.

- 1.—He should have a knowledge of the physical basis for sound health, such as regular and
sufficient hours of sleep, right posture, suitable
exercise and proper elimination.
- 2.—He should know the types and amounts and proportions of the various food elements essential to the proper nurture of the body.
- 3.—He should have an acquaintance with the principles of normal mental action and the conditions underlying the more common variations from normal state of mind.
- 4.—He should have a general understanding of the sex instinct in man's stages of development,
its normal expression and the values and penalties
attaching to it.
- 5.—He should have a knowledge of the factors determining infection and resistance and of the principles of artificial immunization in the case of certain of the common infectious diseases.
- 6.—He should have enough knowledge of the causes and prevention of the degenerative diseases
to offer a prospect of passing through middle life without a breakdown.
- 7.—He should know and therefore be armed against health hazards lurking in the environment,
such as polluted water and milk supply, congestion
of housing, poisonous dusts of certain industries,
infected soil, etc.
- 8.—He should appreciate the necessity for frequent medical and dental examination.
- 9.—He should have an intelligent basis for choosing wisely his medical and dental advisers, and for realizing that the modern practice of medicine is grounded on science, and not on mystery, fancy and tradition.
- 10.—He should have a knowledge of the important health problems facing the community, of the methods of attacking those problems, and of the results to be expected from intelligent community action in the public health field.

1.—He should have a knowledge of the physical basis for sound health, such as regular and
sufficient hours of sleep, right posture, suitable
exercise and proper elimination.

Shine On? Shine On?
Thanks to your advice for discouraging nose shine I have had no less cause of discomfort this last summer. Now my main and I believe my only complaint is that fat feeling I don't weight more than the tables say I should, but I certainly do feel uncleanly.
(Miss H. L.)
Answer.—I gave you my sympathy for your shiny nose. Now you should have my sympathy for your flabby pose. It will remedy that trouble
just as well as the other recipe remedied the shiny nose. Send a stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for the Second Symphony for a P. D.
lady. Mind, it doesn't purport to reduce. But it does relieve you of that slouchy feeling and gives you a real set up, trim, vigorous appearance.

LIBRARY ADVENTURES

By Arnold Mulder

WHAT MONEY CAN'T BUY

I am going to do something that may on the face of it not seem to be legitimate—talk about a book I have not read. And what is more, it is a book I have no desire to read. Ordinarily this would be unfair, but there is this excuse—the book has received so much boosting through the methods that are far removed from judging it on its merits as literature that it is perhaps fair to, even the score a little by having some one discuss it who does not even intend to read it.

The book is "Mannequin," by Fannie Hurst. It is now out in book form, and strangely enough, it is published by the firm of Alfred A. Knopf.
Usually that firm prints books that command respect and it is not often that Knopf talks through mere money. But here is a case where the company at least appears to try to foist a novel on the public by urging for it the glamor of large sums.

WON MAGAZINE PRIZE
"Mannequin," as everybody knows,
won a $50,000 prize offered by a movie corporation and a magazine. A great many have read the story in serial form and millions have seen it in the movies. As a movie it had a big run and whatever I say about it is based on having seen it in that form. That is ordinarily not entirely fair because many a fine novel has been converted into a very poor movie. But in this case the story was deliberately written for the screen and so Fannie Hurst may fairly be held responsible for it.

And no matter how big the box receipts may have been, the story hardly has a single element of greatness.
Most of it is cheap claptrap. It is a story smothered in gold and it seems ironically appropriate that some one out in California, as told in the newspapers recently, should sue Miss Hurst for $600,000 on the claim of being the author of the story—provided the report is not press agent stuff designed to help along the sale of the book.

Probably millions went to see the movie for no other reason than the report that $50,000 had been paid for the story to Miss Hurst. "That must be a wonderful movie," they argued;

"when the producers are willing to pay $50,000 for a story, it must be extraordinary"—forgetting that that $50,000 was worth half a million or more to the producer in advertising.
And it is further likely that millions
who saw the movie felt that it was a wonderful story, for no better reason than that they felt it must be great because so well paid for. I have heard people describe it as marvelous who could give not a single reason, artisically speaking, for their judgment.
Such is the power of big financial figures over the minds of people that it hypnotizes them. But artistic excellence is something that no amount of money can buy. "Mannequin"
would be no better, artistically, if $500,000 instead of $50,000 had been paid for it. That money was not paid for artistic excellence; it was paid for sensational box receipt possibilities.

REMOVED FROM REALITY

As a movie it is an artificial concoction of events and coincidences so far removed from reality that the two are not even on speaking terms.
Whenever the author gets into difficulties with her plot she says a little prayer to the great god coincidence
and straightway the tangle is straightened out by methods that no artisically self-respecting person would venture to employ. And the credulity of the audience is strained to the breaking point. The high spot in the story calls on us to believe that a big strong man who has snatched a dress from a girl falls with that dress in his arms and is stabbed through the heart by an ornamental dagger
pin that formed part of the trimming! Perhaps if an agile person tried that stunt a hundred million times he might be successful once and we are asked to believe it the first shot merely because the author needs to get the fellow killed off.
And the story is like that all through. It was very high priced on the books of the producers and magazine but artistically the story, in its movie form at least, is cheap all through.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

See-Sawing On Broadway

By Gilbert Swan

New York—I doubt if there is another street in the world where extremes of haunted extravagance and homely simplicity are to be found in such glaring contrast as upon Park avenue.

Turn the corner at Grand Central station and walk along this highway of oblong parkways, flanked by the rigid army of sky-seeking apartments!
This is, indeed, a veritable lap of luxury!

Whereas one can purchase a handsome home in most communities
for some such sum as $25,000 or $30,- 000 such figures are not at all unusual for a single year's rental on Park Avenue.

Now make your way to the other end of the street.

Turn the corner anywhere in the upper reaches, say 125th street or thereabouts.

Here you can find a village blacksmith, holding bravely out against the inroads of the garages. That peculiar ebon blackness that somehow attaches to a smith's shop is there,
as surely as upon any dirt road outside Punkinville.

Now and then the sidewalk becomes restless paths. Small shops cater to a neighborhood business.
Whites, foreigners, Negroes stand in groups on the corner. Aproned women hurry to the market with little baskets.

Twenty blocks down, the ladies of luxury are just ordering their maids to put costly French bathsuits in the
bag. There is a swirl of silks, soft-voiced conversations over the telephone, parade of ultra-lux French automobiles.

Time was when Riverside Drive
was the capital of Manhattan lavishness and luxury. No more!

On this street, also, may be found
the extremes in what people are accustomed to regarding as respectability.

Respectable virtue and respectable
lack of it dwell side by side. It is difficult, almost impossible, to distinguish between those of one and those of the other class.

The department, dress, and decorum of those who survive through the bounty of wealthy romancers are eminently refined. In some instances, perhaps, suspiciously refined. The necessity of fitting into a social niche is taken quite as seriously by them as
by the wives of the rich.

Most of them are widely traveled;
skilled in small talk and wit. Having little else to do they make beauty a profession and are, generally speaking, strikingly attractive.

And, again, some twenty blocks up,
the cobbler's wife stops on the street
corner to gossip with the old woman who turns the corner grocery.

Their problem is keeping a roof
over their heads and feeding children who, mayhap, one day will build fortunes out of their father's pennies,
and have a $20,000 apartment four blocks away from Grand Central Station.

are Gryllotapa bore als and G. longi-pennis. They may be recognized by their large brown bodies with a velvetlike covering of fine close hair,
short wing covers, and fossorial front
legs, not unlike the paws of a mole.
The ear of the mole cricket is situated on the front leg below the knee.
Two pairs of wings are found, the small upper wings and lower wings.
These crickets are not poisonous.

Q. Where did speed ball originate?

A. There are two games played under the name of speed ball. One is played in Maryland and another in Michigan. "Speed ball," as played in Michigan, originated with D. Mitchell in charge of intramural sports at the University of Michigan. Speed ball in Maryland originated with the Playground Athletic League as a result of suggestions from Harry P. Clarke, Game Expert of Winnetka, Illinois.

Q. What color are the aborigines
of Australia and New Zealand? A. H.
A. The aborigines of Austria and New Zealand vary from light coffee color to coal black. They have many negro characteristics and are connected with the negro stock.

Q. How many American cigarettes are exported? N. T.
A. Last year cigarettes were exported to the number of 8,145,639,000
and value of $15,042,794. More than half of them went to China.

Q. How tall is President Coolidge and how much does he weight? C. A.
A. His height is 5 feet 10 inches, and last reported weight was 152 pounds.

The Question Box

Q. What percentage of farms have telephones? J. H.

A. Approximately 44 per cent have telephones. There are 2,800,000 telephones on farms.

Q. Why do the following words begin with "k": knot, knee, know, knave? W. W. H.

A. The words about which you have inquired are Anglo-Saxon derivatives. Originally the initial letter was pronounced. As late as Chaucer's day, the word "knight" was pronounced as if spelled "k-nicht."

Q. Is it true that the Blarney Stone is so hard to reach that no one can kiss it? C. N. H.

A. The Blarney Stone has been kissed by hundreds, if not thousands,
of tourists. The sport of kissing it depends largely upon the fact that it is almost inaccessible.

Q.—Please give a description of mole crickets. R. B.

A. Mole crickets combine the characteristics of the cricket with the habits of a mole. They dig winding burrows in the loose soil on the borders of ponds and ditches, raising ridges like miniature mole hills. In their subterranean wanderings, they out the roots of plants upon which, as well as upon earth worms and larvae, they feed. A Porto Rican species does serious damage to crops. The species occurring in the eastern United States

inner side within which lies the chrysalis.

These cocoons vary much in size. I have raised a perfect, though small,
moth from one which was only an inch and three-quarters long. But often they are more than four inches long and much inflated. These large cocoons are most common near the ground.

In the winter great numbers of cocoons are destroyed by woodpeckers which drill a hole in them and through the hole eat out the contents of the pupa.

These are the cocoons of our largest moth, known as the cecropia.
They are very common almost everywhere and you can gather them in numbers once you learn to find them.

About sixty years ago efforts were made to make use of these cocoons as a source of silk. While a fine silk can be obtained from them the expenses of producing it is very high and the caterpillars are difficult to raise.

MENTION ALICE ON COMMITTEE OF REPUBLICANS

Reason for "Coming Out" Party One Day Last Winter
Is Apparent

BY CHARLES F. STEWART
NEA Service Writer

Washington — When, after twenty years of tarrying outside the fold, Alice Roosevelt Longworth suddenly put on her best bib and tucker one day last winter and went to a congressional ladies' tea, it did mean something after all!

People suspected it then. And they were sure when she popped none less name than that of Princess Alice a few days ago for the job of Ohio representative on the Republican national committee.

Of course, that in itself was nothing! A person is vitally and intelligently interested in politics as Alice Longworth gets quite accustomed to having her name up for this and that, and then politely refusing to hold the job!

EFFECT ON NICK'S CHANCES
But it looks very much as if Mrs. Nicholas Longworth from Cincinnati has no intention of refusing this job—she hasn't done so yet. She knows that she is definitely selected, and she's the sort of lady who is quick on the trigger with her "yeas and nays."

Alice Roosevelt Longworth as member of the Republican national committee, those birds in the know, known as political experts, say—

"That means Nick Longworth for president!"

In fact, ever since that day last winter when, breaking a vow made more than 20 years ago to the effect that just because she was marrying a congressman she had no intention of going to all the frumpy congressmen's wives affairs, Alice did go to her first congressional tea in 20 years, they've been saying that she was out plugging for Nick for president!

Some go farther than that—"Nick nothing!" say they. "Alice Longworth is a chip off the old block. She wouldn't mind being this first woman president of the United States they talk about!"

National committees have never meant much to the hol polloi. Most of us don't even know who they are or what they do.

But if it's something that Princess Alice is on, that's something else again.

THEY ALL KNOW ALICE
Everyone knows her. Everyone remembers her girlish pranks. And every time her name is printed, someone's going to think—"Oh yes, they say her husband will run for president."

Her husband, you may recall, is Speaker Nicholas Longworth of the House.

Besides, Alice Longworth will by no means be just a woman on the committee. She'll probably run it. And now she'll corral the woman vote!

Rumors of Nick running for president have been afoot for sometime, mostly, it must be admitted, because Wife Alice was doing the "glad hand" stuff.

Some explained this belated mellowing as due to the softening influence of little daughter Paulina, the autumnal first child of the Longworths.

Washington, it is said, took Nick Longworth for president no more seriously than Alice Roosevelt's husband and the speaker of the House would need be taken. But that is no little amount!

Inside "dope" however, has it that Nick has a chance much slimmer than his waist line.

The dope has it that if the conservatives remain in control of the Republican party, they'll renominate President Calvin Coolidge in 1928, and that if the radicals gain control they will hardly switch to another conservative like Nicholas Longworth of Cincinnati.

"IT MUST BE LOVE"

ONE OF THE SCENES IN "IT MUST BE LOVE" STARRING COLLEEN MOORE AND MALCOLM MCGREGOR WHICH WILL BE SHOWN MONDAY, TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY AT THE ELITE THEATRE.

Chill Blasts Send Hoboes Down Long Trail Once More

—Down the long winding trail of the "road to nowhere" that vast vanguard of men "that don't fit in" are moving again.

Once more the move is taking them nowhere in particular, except that it will eventually find them roaming about under sunny skies during the winter.

For almost six months, these men have been somewhere in the north. Some have been working—in the harvest fields and places of that kind. Others have been merely roving.

Quite a few have been content to stop-over in the big cities for the summer, working part of the time but playing most of it.

Many of them have "summered" in Chicago, spending much of their time around the "Hobo College," so-called for those men the world calls hoboes.

Here at this place on a summer evening one may sit for hours, listening to tales that had their origin in all parts of the world.

Contrary to public opinion most of these men are not what the public calls "bums" as far as intelligence is concerned.

Sometimes they sit throughout an evening discussing various philosophies. The discussion occasionally shifts to literature and they are well read as a general rule. Quotations from Emerson, Milton, sometimes Plato and Socrates frequently crop up in their conversation.

They move about in the warm countries during the winter, in the cold countries during the summer. Then they gather here and in other large cities for the summer to provide food and clothing.

The boys who roam in the west during the summer always stop over here for a while before leaving for the south. Now as winter rapidly approaches they are moving on.

A southbound freight the other day, passing Sixty-third street had eleven men riding in open sight on flat cars and "oilers." How many were gathered in the "empties" is conjecturable.

A few weeks ago now, most of them will be in the south. Some will ship from New Orleans, Mobile, Galveston, and other seaport towns for warmer weather still.

Then during the winter they will roam around in the tropics, perhaps the West Indies, perhaps South America. Some of them eventually will find the orient.

But no place will they settle down—for theirs is the curse or the blessing of the gypsy blood.

RED CROSS SEEKING CLOTHES FOR NEAR EAST

National Red Cross headquarters has issued an appeal to all volunteer workers to help secure garments for the poverty stricken children of Bulgaria, Albania, Greece and Constantinople during the winter. Homer C. Benton, chairman of the Outagamie county chapter, said. About 64,000 garments will be needed for the winter. It has been estimated at the headquarters at Washington.

Urgent calls for clothing have been sent from Red Cross chapters in island possessions of the United States, the letter received by Mr. Benton stated, and chapters abroad have reported that there is great need among the children of the countries of the Near East.

Production work by volunteer workers has been carried on in an extensive way in other years. Last year 150,000 garments and 2,000,000 surgical dressings were made, it was reported.

FALSE ALARMS ADD MUCH TO FIRE EXPENSES

The annual reports of the fire chiefs in all large and medium size cities and many of the small one invariably show a number of alarms to which responses made by the fire department were false, according to George P. McGillap, chief of Appleton fire department. Unless there is an epidemic of false alarms, they are seldom noticed by the public. Taxpayers apparently do not realize it takes just as much of their money to send the fire apparatus in answer to a false alarm as it does to a genuine fire.

It is difficult to estimate the actual expense of responding to a fire alarm as costs will differ in various communities, according to the length of the run, the pieces of apparatus used in responding and other factors. The Cleveland fire department estimates the cost to be $350. Chief McGillap said. This figure is reached by dividing the total expenses of maintaining the fire department by the number of alarms to which response is made. While this may be high for the average size city, it is evident that a large expenditure of money is involved every time the apparatus leaves its headquarters.

The Insurance Department of the United States Chamber of Commerce emphasizes the great danger of false alarms in a communication sent to the local chamber. Every time an alarm is sounded some of the city's equipment must respond. If a real fire should occur in the same vicinity while the apparatus is away from headquarters, much valuable time may be lost and what might have been a small fire may develop into a serious one. Firemen always run the risk of death or injury in traffic accidents when speeding to a fire. This hazard is just as serious when answering a false alarm. As far as the

INGRAHM'S GIFT OPENS INDIAN TRAINING SCHOOL

Milwaukee—(P)—A religious training institute for young men and women of India has been opened at Ghaziabad, India, through a gift in the will of the late Robert S. Ingraham, Methodist minister of Milwaukee and Green Lake, Wis.

The school was recently dedicated according to Dr. J. C. Pace, of Iowa Park, Texas, who was appointed as principal. There are dormitory and classroom accommodations for approximately 150 students who will go to work after graduation as teachers, pastors, industrial workmen, farmers and business and professional men.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Doepker, 933 W. Spring-st., returned from Shepherd, Mich., where they attended the funeral of Mr. Doepker's mother, Mrs. May Doepker.

Firemen know, they may be going to a serious blaze.

It is universally against the law to turn in a false alarm. Sometimes the law is laxly enforced and no special effort is made to apprehend violators unless the number of false alarms becomes unduly large. Because of the dangers involved in this practice, every possible step should be made to arrest those who violate this law. Such people may get a thrill out of seeing the fire apparatus race down the street, but if they know they were likely to pay a severe penalty for their mistaken idea of pleasure, they might think twice before causing the department to make a false run.

Can Society Make Us Abolish Marriage and Morals?

Four writers—one a woman of exalted social position—another an internationally famous judge—the third and fourth the greatest social novelists in America—give their authoritative answers in the four greatest literary features that have ever been published in a single magazine.

JUDGE BEN B. LINDSEY on The Moral Revolt
MRS. PHILIP LYDIG on The Tragedy of Gilded Youth

OWEN JOHNSON'S GREAT STORY "Children of Divorce"
RUPERT HUGHES' LATEST NOVEL "We Live But Once"

IN a democracy the mass of the people are given to imitation of the few. The few in America are the idle rich, who, in their search for new sensations, flamboyantly place themselves not only above the law but outside the moral code that society has evolved for its own discipline and salvation.

What once were secrets held inviolate are today openly discussed; habits of life once surreptitiously indulged are today boasted of; customs that have their roots in the safety of society are boldly being displaced by a code that justifies "anything you can get away with."

Whence came this amazing change in our manners and customs, no one knows. One declares it to be the direct result of the unbalancing of society by the Great War; another traces its origin to the possession of more wealth, almost overnight, on the part of vastly more people than ever before.

And no one is better placed to produce actual evidence of the change than Judge Ben B. Lindsey, of the internationally famous Family Court of Denver.

A tolerant man, an understanding man, but more than all else, a brave man, he is presenting that evidence—and his conclusions—under the startling title, "The Moral Revolt," in the frankest series of articles that have ever appeared in a magazine.

Case after case from his own Court, related in all their illuminating details, are offered by him in support of his belief that a new code of morals, particularly in relation to sex, is being evolved under our eyes today.

In further support of Judge Lindsey's belief, Mrs. Philip Lydig, all of whose life has been spent in the world of fashionable society here and abroad, comes forward with an article entitled, "The Tragedy of Gilded Youth," in which she too cites case after case of youthful destruction as a result of young people growing up in the atmosphere that surrounds their rich and idle elders.

Nor is that all. For in the fascinating form of the novel, Mr. Owen Johnson and Mr. Rupert Hughes, themselves familiar with all strata of society, present dramatic pictures of just what is proceeding on the inside of that society. Their novels, "Children of Divorce" and "We Live But Once," are written with no less frankness and first-hand knowledge than the articles by Judge Lindsey and Mrs. Lydig.

In addition to these contributions of the deepest human interest, the same magazine offers, in its November issue, the best and latest work of the most popular novelists and short-story writers—among others, Struthers Burt, Robert Benchley, Arthur Mason, James Hopper, Virginia Darr, Margaret Culkin Banning, and Samuel Scoville, Jr.

Expensive Clothes Can Look As Dowdy As Cheap Ones
More Chance Of Looking Well In Sport Clothes

BY BETSY SCHUYLER
NEW YORK—In spite of all that is written about how simple it is to be well dressed, I am unconvinced. I continue to believe that the artist in dress is as rare as she is in the world of art and letters. Always it comes to me, when attending some social function where millions are represented, that it must be just as hard to be distinctively garbed on a large income as on a small one.

It must be just as easy to be dowdy in expensive clothes as in cheap ones, and as easy to buy the wrong thing in the gray velvet show room of an exclusive couturier as it is at a bargain counter. Otherwise, how can we account for appearances?

But I do believe a woman has less chance to go wrong when she buys sport clothes than when she is buying, say, evening gowns. And the average of dressing is always higher at a sport event than it is at the opera.

CHANEL RED LEADS
At the Tuxedo Junior Horse Show, costuming was reduced to jumper frocks and fur-collared sport coats. In colors, Chanel red forced itself upon my vision at every turn, with beige and green next. Jersey and wool crepe seemed the most popular choice in material, with velvet also very prominent.

The Wickes family was unanimously jumpered. Mrs. Forsyth Wickes wore a velvet jumper with a pleated crepe skirt that was banded in velvet. A neat little turnover collar of white crepe outlined the neckline.

Her daughter, Marian, a stunningly clear cut, cameo-like creature, was in a natural kasha colored dress trimmed with bands of Chanel red. Her skirt had inverted pleats in the front, and banded low over her slim hips.

Kitty Wickes wore a beige wool jumper belted with brown, and a cunning little turn down hat of brown.

Novelty wool in shades of brown and tan made the attractive costume worn by Mrs. George Harris which consisted of a cardigan jacket, pleated skirt, tan jumper belted with brown, and a huge brown flower on her lapel.

At the final polo matches at Meadowbrook, the jumper also played the leading role, though frequently it was almost hidden under heavy coats, due to the wintry chill that prevailed.

Mrs. Godaby Loew wore a stitched jersey blouse and velveteen skirt and one of the new shaven fur coats with a tailored collar. These cats are ex-

SEPARATE FURS WORN
Mrs. Bryce Wing was faultlessly garbed in silk jumper costume with the tailored bows, and a tweed coat, which I suspect being one of Viennese models from the geometric precision of the cut. Instead of a fur collar, a separate silver fox fur gave softness to the neckline. Her tailored velvet hat was made a bit less austere by a feminine little bow. No woman in New York knows better than Mrs. Wing how to give a feminine touch to a tailored or sport ensemble.

A very wintry-looking coat of striped wool, which Mrs. Edward Main Post wore, was collared and cuffed with raccoon that just matched her beige jersey frock in tone.

On Park Avenue the other day I saw Mrs. Martin B. Saporta in a two-piece frock of black satin with narrow pipings of white, which was laced down the front with a white ribbon. Later I saw Mrs. Harry C. Cushing, formerly Cathleen Vanderbilt, in a lovely black satin frock, a bit fitted at the waistline, with long, tight sleeves, and a lace collar and cuffs. She was wearing the draped African turban which she has displayed in many versions and in many color combinations since her recent return from Europe.

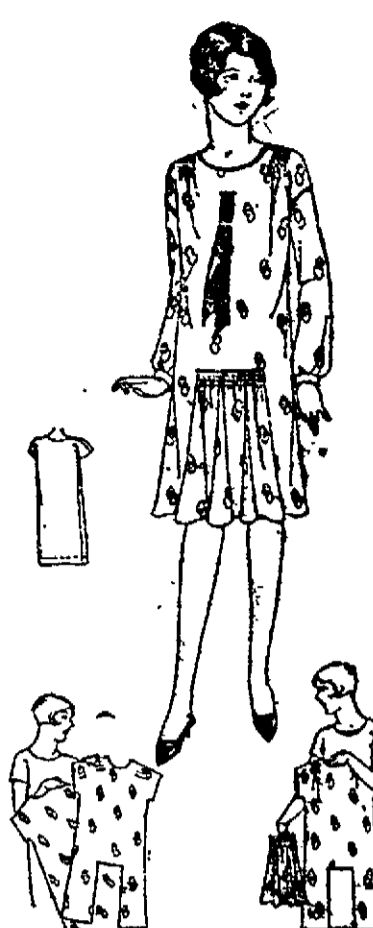

Skipping gaily from sport and day attire to evening, I must make mention of some of the evening gowns I have seen at the various first nights. There was Anita Loos in a strawberry ice cream shade of pink with a fitted bodice, a full skirt, and a sumptuous wrap of gold cloth. There was Hope Hampton in white with a huge corsage of orchids. Fanny Ward, who admits she is 64, looked possibly a third of her age in a pink and rose frock. Ina Claire's gown was concealed from view under a huge black Spanish shawl embroidered in vivid colors. Texas Guinan was resplendent in yellow. I saw ever so much green-blue, and cloth of gold.

ATTAINING DISTINCTION
Speaking of green-blue, no one wears it more attractively than Mary Brown Warburton, who was selling real estate last year at Palm Beach, and decorating houses as well, in spite of being one of the most social of that winter resort, and a leader of Philadelphia society. I caught a glimpse of her in a blue velvet straight-line coat banded with ermine.

Velvet is featured by Helen Menken in her new play. She has one evening gown of white velvet with a pinkish tinge made with a very full bouffant skirt long at the sides and short in the front and back. She also has a gray velvet street outfit, banded with chinchilla in the most regal fashion, and a green crepe outfit with summer shades that is exceedingly out of the question for any but the most unlimited income.

Which gets me back to where I started—it isn't easy to be distinctive, but it is worth while making the effort.

to come out here and be present at the settlement. That will take some time you know. I am somewhat at a loss to know why he has not spoken of that before."

"Perhaps he has," said Joan, as a slow blush of shame spread over her face. "The other three letters, one an airplane special at the house. But I felt the truth I was so worried about my own affairs that I did not open them. John often sends me special letters when he wants books or instruments or something done for him in the city, and I thought these letters were about some of the things that could wait until I knew what was going to happen to me. I'll go home now and read them and let you know in the morning."

"But you must know, Mr. Hathaway, that if we find things all right and if all my brother and I have to do is to sign a few old papers, I shall expect you to look Judy's and my passage on the next boat."

Jerry looked at me and appealingly. I saw his hand tremble as he tried to raise the thick white coffee cup casually to his lips. There was an expression on his face that made my heart beat a little faster. I had never seen Jerry Hathaway when he seemed so troubled.

All at once I found that there was a new feeling within my soul as I watched him. I wanted to comfort him. I wanted to hold his head against my heart. I wanted to smooth his hair which had become mussed in our long ride from the city when he had been without his hat.

For the first time in my short life I felt that motherly instinct that merciful Providence had planted in the soul of every woman. Until now I had been so interested in my affairs and the exciting experiments that I had been making in every day living, that the idea had never come to me that my own way was the way of every woman. It was the fulfilling of God's plan. It was the great thing that makes a woman something more or less divine. It was the thing that has made great painters place a halo around the head of Mary—it was the thing which makes all men at some times in their lives look upon some woman and adore.

I looked across the table at Joan and saw that her face was transfigured and I understood that she, too, had the great thrill and that her love had always contained that feeling of maternal responsibility without which any woman's life was dress.

I knew instinctively that what she had just passed through had broadened and deepened her character, and that now that Jerry was gone that she would come to her some time in the mind.

NEW YORK—It isn't beatings or flattery or free-lance petting that break up many happy homes. It is scorching the breakfast bacon, or leaving a shaving brush full of soap, or hitting the fingernails or mixing up the pages of the morning paper.

For love can forgive brutality or infidelity or desertion. But let the small irritations of daily living go on too long—and Cupid will just lie down and take the count.

"Watch the trifles," warns Mrs. Viola Anglin, deputy chief probation officer of Manhattan family court, after 15 years of observation on the front line trenches of New York's marital wars.

Last year, 10,000 cases came into her court, and a million and a half dollars was distributed in alimony through her office.

"DON'T BE YOURSELF"
"The little rough edges of living together wear off the glamor of romance," she says. "I have seen more marriages beaten by uncured hair than by infidelity, and more hearts broken by forgotten birthday gifts than by desertion."

"If you value your mate, don't be yourself. Keep on being that charming, stimulating, highly artificial fake you were during courtship. After a while, you'll find it comes natural."

"Most human beings, unadorned, are pretty shoddy companions day in and day out. They simply must make the effort to be amusing, attractive, amiable, if they are going to keep the dust on the butterfly's wings. Romance is the most perishable of all known commodities."

The modern talk of woman's emancipation is not yet reflected in the married woman's feeling about her husband's money," says Mrs. Anglin. "Many women still are bent on extracting every possible dollar from the men they marry, in return for a negligible amount of housework and child bearing."

"Don't plot and scheme to get the coins out of his pockets, but make fair demands, and if they are not met find some way to earn money for yourself, and let him get along as best he can without your services in the home. To have to beg for money is debasing."

"Don't be suspicious of infidelity. But use your energy to prevent it. Rolling pins and frying pans may tame recalcitrant husbands without being thrown at them. For good food is near to the heart of every romance."

"WATCH YOURSELF"
"On the other hand, don't let your own graces and beauty slip away under the burden of housework. There is no excuse nowadays for a slovenly house or a slovenly appearance, for woman's work has been vastly simplified by science."

Then there is the question of the married woman who wants to go out after a career. "Don't do it," says Mrs. Anglin. "If your husband is making a living for you, be satisfied to keep a pleasant home and mother your children. No woman can handle a double job successfully."

"And if you don't believe that motherhood is woman's normal, happy job, take a look at the 'successful' business women who have missed it!"

was not fitted for her high interest rate, but for operating without a license. The business could have been legalized merely by filling out a form and paying a small fee.

There are hundreds of "She-Shylocks" in Great Britain. They make loans for a few shillings to poor, ignorant women who usually meekly submit to exorbitant interest charges rather than let their husbands know they are in the toils of money lenders.

Live In Suburb

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

GOLDEN autumn days find real estate merchants showing their choicest wares to prospective customers. Those fortunate people who are considering the building of a new home in the spring probably are interested just now in finding a plot of ground suited to their taste and convenience. For one thing, the weather is more auspicious for such a survey, and for another, it is not a bad thing to see one's future environment in its gay fall dress instead of at the bleak end of winter when all attempt at suburban or country building is likely to drive the prospective householder shivering back into his steam heated apartment with a thankful prayer to the heaven that saved him from such folly!

Folly! You will seldom find anyone who has broken away from the toils of the dumb waiter and sunporch four flights up, into the freedom of God's country, going back to more system of bell-ringing for him! Laugh all you like at Mr. Subbubs of the comics, shoveling snow, missing the last train, and on the hunt for his eternally borrowed lawn mower; but never mind—he and his neighbors are having their innings. The suburbs and the country are coming in to their own at last.

The very trend of architecture indicates the passing of the "city type" of house. What house plan have we seen in the papers or magazines, even to the most modest bungalow, that does not require a goodly plot of ground to sit upon with a generous margin around it for things "to grow on?"

And, while you are planning, as the simplest type of house how costs the price of a Texas oil well, why not stick to essentials? Every groove in a roof where two slopes meet costs a hundred dollars or so extra. Why not the plain barn roof—always lovely to behold, cheap to construct and easy to keep in repair. And hard oak floors are not necessary! Yellow pine takes a fine wax finish and wears forever.

CALL WOMAN MONEY LENDER
'SHE-SHYLOCK'

London.—(AP)—"She-Shylocks of the Slums," is the epithet applied to women who specialize in small loans to wives of working men in the poor districts of England's great cities.

One of these money lenders has been fined five pounds for transaction in which the interest charged was at the rate of 866 per cent a year. The lady own age and of my own understanding more than I have learned all together in the years that have gone before."

"Have you also loved and lost?" she said as she looked at me quizzically.

Jerry's hand tightened upon mine. "I don't know, Joan," I said honestly, "whether I have ever loved or not. If it is a sudden passion that makes one feel that one cannot live separated from the other, I have never loved. And not having loved, I cannot have a feeling that I have lost."

Jerry dropped my hand, and rising we all went down the piazza steps out into the moonlight garden.

BREAKFAST—Honeydew melon, cereal, thin cream, stirred eggs and tomatoes crisp rye toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Baked macaroni and cheese, graham bread and lettuce, sandwiches, caramelized apples, ginger snaps, milk, tea.

DINNER—Baked haddock with cucumber sauce, browned potatoes, cabbage salad, Concord grapes, fudge cake, whole wheat bread, milk, coffee.

Children under six years of age should be served orange juice or a baked or stewed fruit in place of the melon suggested in the breakfast menu. And of course small persons should not have the sauce served with the dinner fish.

The woman who lives on a farm with apples always at hand will welcome the caramelized apple rule.

Caramelized Apples

One and one-half cups sugar, 1 1/2 cups water, 6 tablespoons chopped nut meats, 6 apples, 1/2 cup whipping cream, 2 tablespoons powdered sugar, 1/4 teaspoon vanilla.

Cook 1 cup sugar with water until a thick syrup. Add apples pared and cored. Turn often and cook over a low fire. When tender but not broken in place in a serving dish or on individual plates. Boil the syrup until thick. In the meantime put remaining sugar and nuts into a small iron spider and cook over a hot fire stirring constantly until the sugar melts and discolors. Fill the cavities of the apples with the heavy jelly-like syrup in which they were cooked and pour the caramel mixture over the apples. Pour any remaining syrup around the fruit and top each apple with a spoonful of cream whipped until stiff and lightly flavored with sugar and vanilla.

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

From the far off land of Wonderland, like fairies sailing through the air, there came a band of Tynymites, and cheerful tots were they. It seems they never will grow up, and from the morn till time to sup, mid song and dance and much delight, they spend their time in play.

Of course when first they landed here, the country wide, both far and near, was really quite a wonder spot and happy place to roam. And so the little Tynymites said, "We'll start out to see the sights, as soon as we are sure we've got a place to call our home."

One little member of the band, who always lent a willing hand, when e'er it came to finding things, was Scouty Tynymite. And so they sent him on his way and said, "Now don't come back today, until your scouting journey brings cheerful living site."

Now Scouty was the sort of lad who knew the good things from the bad, so when he started out to look he felt no real alarm. "I'll simply find a place," said he, "where we can all live happily, nearby a cozy knoll or nook, an far away from harm."

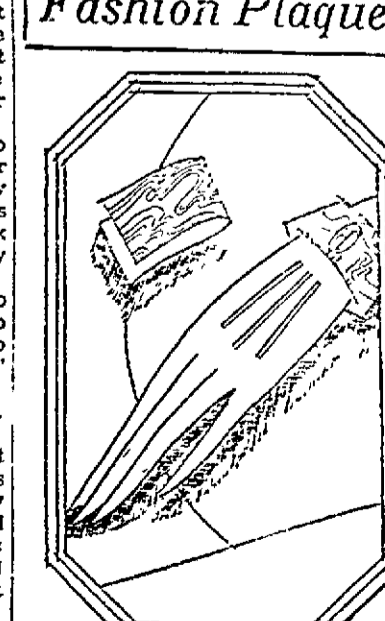

Through woods and fields, by night and day, poor Scouty trudged his way, and then he found the very place that he was looking for. "Well this is luck," he shouted loud, "there's room enough for all our crowd," and then he ran a merry pace to tell what was in store.

"Attention, all you Tynymites, I've found the very best of sights," and Scouty nearly toppled down from running all that day. "Now everybody here," said he, "who wants to go, just follow me." And with a shout and mighty bound, the band was on its way.

(Follow the Tynymites on their adventures. Another story TOMORROW.)

Her Own Way
A STORY OF A GIRL OF TODAY

A NEW JOB

Just then Joan came back on the porch from telephoning and we could say no more.

She immediately asked Jerry if he would book as passage on the next steamer early in the morning.

"Of course, I will do that, Miss Meredith, if you think you will want it, but honestly if I were you I would wait until I knew something about the settlement of the estate," said Joan.

Joan looked annoyed. I imagined it was the first time in her life that a man in the same station as herself in life had not started immediately at her command to make her wishes come true.

"You see, Joan, Mr. Hathaway seems to think it rather strange that you have not had anything said to you by anyone, not even your stepfather, about the final settling of your estate. You know you probably have many millions of dollars in many different securities and real estate holdings and it will take a long while to get these all in proper shape. Have you seen Mr. Elkins lately?"

"Some way I have a faint recollection that Josiah Elkins is very ill," interrupted Jerry. "And that his son has taken over as much of his business as possible. This may possibly account for Miss Meredith's not hearing about her business."

"Well, we will find this all out in the morning," I said. "Joan, Mr. Hathaway suggests that we wait Mr. Elkins' office in the morning and notify them that we will expect a settlement on the seventeenth, which is a day after tomorrow."

This seemed to suggest but one thing to Joan Meredith.

"Then you are coming home with me, Judy, as my companion and business manager," she exclaimed enthusiastically.

"If you want me, dear," I said. "I'll try to be your companion, if that is what they call them, for a while, but not your business manager. I don't know anything about business. And I don't think I had better go home with you tonight, for your stepfather is probably very angry with me."

I had not told Joan anything about Miss Cleaver and I did not intend to unless it became absolutely necessary. But I knew that Mr. Robinson had probably been hunting me all day, and if he found me at his house there would be ructions.

"I don't see why you can't come home with me even if he is angry," pouted Joan.

"I would rather not tonight, dear," I declined. "You see, Mamie does not know where I am and I will have to make some arrangements with her before I can come to you."

"If you wish, Joan," I continued, "I will go with you to your lawyer tomorrow morning so that if anything unexpected comes up I can tell someone all about it, or at least supplement what you have to say. In things like this you know it is well to have a witness."

"I expect," said Jerry, "as much as he will hate it, your brother will have

EXPERIENCE OF WESTERN GIRL

Found Cannery Work Too Tiring

The fertile valleys of Oregon help to supply the tables of America.

This is possible thru the magic of the humble tin can.

In one of the canning establishments, Julia Schmidt was employed. It was complicated work because she did sealing and other parts of the work. It was strenuous work and she was not a strong girl. Often she felt herself to sit at her machine. At times she would have to stay at home for she was so weak she could hardly walk. For five years she was in this weakened condition.

She tried various medicines. At last, a friend of her spoke of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Miss Schmidt gave it a trial.

Everyone says I am a healthier and stronger girl," she wrote me recommending the Vegetable Compound to all my friends who tell me how they suffer and I am willing to answer letters from women asking about it. Julia Schmidt's address is, 652 North Front St., Salem, Oregon. For sale by all druggists.

WIN OVER NEENAHKaukauna Squad Plays Good Football to Defeat Plucky
Neenah Team

Kaukauna-Kaukauna High school defeated Neenah 21 to 0 in a slow game of football at Neenah Saturday. This defeat for the Mill City team and rain spoiled what would have otherwise been a perfectly good "homecoming". A number of graduates were on the sidelines, but altogether Neenah did not turn out as large a crowd as Kaukauna sent up. Fully three hundred Kaukauna followers of the Orange and Black followed the team to the Twin-City.

There was no particular star in the Kaukauna team in Saturday's game, the entire squad playing good ball, but Captain Noel Macerorie, Esler, Kemp and Verbeten stood out just a bit more prominently than the rest of the team. Mike Schneller and Haase were the bright lights on Neenah's squad. Neenah played a plucky game but was no match for the faster Electric City outfit. A field prevented the Galloping Ghosts, as Smith has named his fast backfield, from getting started or the score would have been somewhat larger. Kaukauna outplayed Neenah in every department of the game, but there were times when Neenah broke through the center of Kaukauna's line for gains. M. Miller was not in the game and as a result the right side of the line was weakened considerably.

FIRST QUARTER

Neenah chose to kick and Schneller kicked to Macerorie on the 15 yard line. Macerorie returned it five. A pass was incomplete. Kemp ran twenty yards on the next play for the first down. The ball was on Neenah's 44 yard line. Macerorie made two through left. Macerorie made three more in the same place. Kemp ran eight yards around right for another first down. The ball was on Neenah's 34 yard line. A pass was incomplete. Macerorie was thrown for a five yard loss. A pass Macerorie to Kemp was good for twenty yards and the ball was on Neenah's 15 yard line. First down. Macerorie carried it over for a touchdown running eighteen yards around right. He kicked the goal.

Kaukauna kicked to Haase who ran it back seven yards from the twenty yard line. Neenah fumbled and Kaukauna recovered on its 24 yard line. Verbeten made 10 yards through left for first down. Kemp ran five to Neenah's three yard line and Kronforst didn't make anything on the next play. Macerorie went squirming over and then kicked the goal and the score was 14 to 0 in the Orange and Black's favor in the first five minutes of play.

Kaukauna kicked to Mike who received it on the 20 yard line. He ran it back 19. Mike made a yard through center. Smith didn't make anything in the same place. Schneller kicked to Kemp who received it on his 20 yard line and returned it 11. Kemp made another run of 15 yards around right to Neenah's 64 yard line. Macerorie didn't make anything.

SECOND QUARTER

It was Kaukauna's ball on Neenah's 24 yard line. Kaukauna was penalized 15 yards for holding and the ball was on the 39 yard line. Kemp made six through right. Kemp made one around right. Macerorie attempted to drop kick from Neenah's 34 yard line. The ball was on Neenah's 20 yard line and the Neenah squad not ready to plunge. Schneller didn't make a thing. Smith ran three. Mike made five and Neenah had made its first down of the game. A pass to Smith netted them nothing. Malout made one yard through center and Mike ran 2 around left. Schneller kicked to Kaukauna's 5 yard line. Verbeten made nine yards. Macerorie ran 27 yards around right. Verbeten made eight around right, putting the ball on Neenah's 56 yard line. Kronforst made two only when Haase got him. Esler was sent in for Kronforst. Michael got Smith after Kaukauna had kicked to Neenah twenty yard line. Smith made two through center. Smith made two through center.

Schneller gained six yards through right for first down. Malout couldn't make anything through center, but Smith hit the same spot for a one yard gain. A pass Smith to Esler was good for a yard. Schneller kicked to Kaukauna's 44 yard line. Esler made seven around right. Macerorie made 10 through right tackle as the half ended.

THIRD QUARTER

Neenah kicked off to Verbeten who received it on his 20 yard line and ran it back 22 yards. Esler fumbled, recovered and had lost three. Neenah was penalized five yards for off side. Esler made four around right. Kemp ran to the fifty yard line. Macerorie kicked to Neenah's twenty yard line. Smith made two through center. Mike made four through center. Schneller kicked to Kaukauna's forty-five yard line after two more plays didn't work. The ball was on Kaukauna's forty-five yard line. Esler made seven around right. Verbeten made three around the other side. Macerorie plunged for two. First down on Neenah's 42 yard line. Esler made four yards around right end. Verbeten couldn't make a thing through center. Macerorie passed to Kemp for twenty yards to Neenah's 19 yard line. Esler made 11 yards around left end to Neenah's eight yard line. Haase stopping him. Esler went over for a touchdown on the next play. Macerorie kicked goal. The score was 21 to 0. Kaukauna kicked to Haase on his 26 yard line. Mike couldn't make anything by plunging. Smith plunged center for two. Mike made four around right. Schneller kicks to Kaukauna 35 yard line. Kemp carried it back ten. Haase dropped Esler in his tracks. A pass Macerorie to Kemp was good for three. Kaukauna kicked to Neenah's twenty yard line and

HARVEST FESTIVAL
SPOILED BY RAIN

Saturday Night Street Program Is Called Off by Directors

Kaukauna—Rain spoiled the annual harvest festival in this city Saturday. A great many people from out of town were her for the day and those who came to sell livestock in the morning were not disappointed for there were many buyers here. Well over three hundred pigs exchanged hands during the morning. The rest of the plans were somewhat upset by the rain and the entertainment planned for the evening had to be called off. The band played up in the Fox club rooms, instead of giving its opening concert on the business corners.

It has not been decided what the Tri-County Fair association will hold another festival in the near future.

The ball was on Neenah's 35 yard line. Malout made three around left. A pass was incomplete. Smith hit center for two. The ball was on Neenah's 40 yard line. Schneller kicked to Kaukauna's 35 yard line. Macerorie made five through right tackle. Esler was taken out and Hishon was sent in. Macerorie kicked to Neenah's 45 yard line. Seymour Lady Spent Over $1000
Without Getting Any Relief

After all hope seemed lost she started on Drecto and she is now in perfect health.

"After fifteen years of suffering, your wonderful medicine has at last made me well and I now go about my work singing and as happy as I can be," declared Mrs. Harriet E. Scott in a recent talk with the Drecto man at his headquarters at Schilz Bros. Drug Store. Mrs. Scott lives in Seymour, a suburb of Appleton, and has a host of friends throughout this section.

"I was completely rundown when I first read of Drecto in the paper. My stomach was so distressed I denied myself even the food I liked best for even a glass of milk would turn sour and form gas as soon as I drank it. The gas was terrible. Sometimes I'd belch so loud it could be heard all over the house and it would break me out and press against my heart. I thought I had heart trouble. I was always belching up sour, burning liquids that would almost choke me and the pain in my stomach was almost unbearable. I also suffered from constipation, headaches, pains in my back and nervousness and I was so restless at night I woke up just as tired as when I went to bed.

"I spent over $1000.00 trying to get well but nothing seemed to suit my case till I started on Drecto. This wonderful remedy went right to the root of my troubles, however, and now I am completely well. I can eat anything without suffering the least distress with my stomach afterwards, my bowels are as regular as the clock, the pains in my back and have been relieved, and when my head touches the pillow at night I go right to sleep and don't know a thing till the next morning.

"Drecto is surely a wonderful medicine and I want to recommend it to everyone of my friends."

Mr. Marr Baker, the well-known Expert from the Drecto Laboratories now at Schilz Bros. downtown drug store, is telling scores of people every day how to take Drecto for best results. Go to see him. His advice is free.

COLLEEN IN ROMANCE OF BIG CITY IN NEW FILM AT ELITE

Promise of a delightful romance of middle class life in New York is made by the management of the Elite Theatre, where "It Must Be Love," Colleen Moore's latest First National starring vehicle, will be shown 3 days starting to-day.

"It Must Be Love," adapted from Brooke Hanson's story, "Delicatessen," is declared to be one of the most human stories of the year, being replete with heart-throbs as well as the well-known Moore chuckles. This production presents a cross-section of the kind of life we all know, centering in the situation a girl finds herself in when she gets a beau and is ashamed to bring him to her home in back of a delicatessen store.

There are many such cases in our own families, in the families around the corner and on the next block. It is this sense of nearness, this feeling of actuality and everyday humanness which gives Miss Moore the opportunity to draw the most out of her very appealing part as the girl who has to sacrifice living at home for her pride.

Malcolm McGregor plays the role of the sweetheart, who never finds out all the end of his girl has been deceiving him as to her parentage. Jean Herscholt as the father and Bodil Rosing as the mother make a marvelously effective pair in their German characterizations.

ZANE GREY LAUDS HOLT AS IDEAL WESTERN HERO

"Jack Holt is the ideal type of player for the hero roles in my stories of the West."

These words from Zane Grey mean more to Holt than the highest praise anyone else could accord him.

The popular Paramount player is frank to admit that he enjoys portraying on the screen the sturdy, two-fisted characters Grey has painted so vividly with printed words. An adventurer and man-of-the-outdoors all his life, Holt feels more at home in a wide-brimmed Stetson, black silk shirt, riding boots and blue overalls than in a tuxedo, although a score of pictures testify to the fine appearance he makes in evening clothes.

In explaining why he singles Holt out for special laudatory mention, Zane Grey said:

"Jack Holt plays his roles naturally. He does not stride up and down before the camera making broad gestures. He is like men of the West, are in real life quiet, calm, reliant, and swift and sure in emergency. He is always modest but with an almost imperceptible undercurrent of strength of character and determination that make you feel it would be extremely unhealthy to attempt to take advantage of him."

The famous author was particularly enthusiastic over Holt's characterization of the "good-badman" role in "Forlorn River," his latest western thriller. Fisher's Appleton Theatre Thursday and Friday of this week Arlette Marchal, the noted French actress, Raymond Hatton, comic character actor and Edmund Burns, well known leading man, share acting honors with Holt in this production.

BERT LYTELL IS OPPOSITE ALMA RUBENS IN NEW FILM

"The Gilded Butterfly," the stirring society romance produced by Fox Films, featuring Alma Rubens and Bert Lytell, which open at the New Bijou for three days starting to-day measures up to every motion picture requirement.

There is continuous action from the first flash to the final fade-out. The theme of the picture is engrossing and the plot well worked out. Romance, pathos, and comedy are interwoven in a simple but convincing manner. The characterizations are real and the characters not overdrawn. The photography, direction and settings leave nothing to be desired.

Alma Rubens appears as Linda Haverhill, the "gilded butterfly" of the story. She is a thoroughly modern girl raised in luxury by a dotting though profligate father. In the beginning of the picture she is a lovable and simple girl who is entirely changed by the death of her father when she finds they have been living on money borrowed from his family and friends, and that everything she owns is unpaid for. Another transition comes towards the middle of the picture when she meets Brian Ancestry, a young American officer.

Bert Lytell is Brian Ancestry. He is ambitious, clean-cut and likeable. It is his influence that make Linda change her outlook on life and try to live within her means.

GEORGE WHITE'S "SCANDALS" With a company numbering one hundred, with a glittering procession of lavish scenes which make necessary the use of three extra baggage cars for their transportation with an all star cast and a real singing and dancing chorus of feminine beauties and with glowing stamp of approval from such centres as New York, Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, St. Louis and Cincinnati, the George White's "Scandals" Sixth Annual Edition, will come to the Fishers Appleton Theatre on Wednesday Oct. 13th matinee and night.

Bright lines, scintillating with wit and clever songs, add to the delight of this Sixth Annual Edition of George White's Series of Revues, which is in two parts and thirty gorgeous scenes. Bud De Sylva and Ballard MacDonald supplied the lyrics. The score is from the pen of the prolific concocter of musical settings George Gershwin. All of the costumes, stage decorations and curtains were designed by Erte and executed by Max Welby of Paris.

Falling to show any real offensive strength the entire game and not much defensively. Coach Mark Catlin's Blue-Lawrence grid hopes defeated a strong Oshkosh Normal team at Whiting field Saturday afternoon, 13-0. The Blue offense was not impressive except in short flashes and the only time the defense functioned well was when the Blues had their backs to the wall. Three-quarters of the Blue was held within 10 yards of the Blue goal in a desperate offense working in great style. Three-quarters of the game was played in a drizzling rain which made good play hard.

Oshkosh showed its greatest strength in the third period when it rushed the ball to the shadow of the Blue goalposts twice only to have it taken away by the stand of a desperate team. In this period Lawrence was badly outplayed. In the final quarter Peterson, Oshkosh fullback, and Hilton, Blue end, waged a kicking duel which was spoiled by the slippery ball. The rain made passes practical impossible and tumbles on line were frequent.

Briese, Nason, Bloomer and Barfield played good games in the Blue rear wall with Hipke, and Counsell and Ott showing up best in the line. Capt. Cooper was the Normal line star while the work of Peterson in the rear wall featured the Oshkosh attack. Stulp, former Neehan high star, also played a fine game as the Blue center. Stulp's combination completed plenty of passes to gain most of Oshkosh's ground.

Lawrence scored the first touchdown after Nason attempted a drop-kick from the 48-yard line on a fourth down. The kick went out of bounds on the 12-yard line from where Oshkosh pushed to almost midfield. After a pair of plays, Oshkosh was penalized 15 yards for holding and Lawrence took the ball on the Normal 25 yard line. Bloomer passed to Stulp for 3 yards and a plunge netted 5 more putting the ball on the Blue 14-yard line. Another play took the pigskin to the 3-yard line. Here the Oshkosh men were penalized for offside and two passes failed. The Blue line held and Lawrence took the ball on downs. Briese punting after Hilton ran the first attempted kick. Peterson's 40-yard place kick failed and then Lawrence braced up. Bloomer picked a hole in the line for 25-yards and completed a pass to Barfield as the half ended.

In the third quarter the Oshkosh chance came when Bloomer fumbled the ball on his own 28-yard line on an attempted end run, Elwood recovering for Normal. Bloomer passed to Stulp for 3 yards and a plunge netted 5 more putting the ball on the Blue 14-yard line. Another play took the pigskin to the 3-yard line. Here the Oshkosh men were penalized for offside and two passes failed. The Blue line held and Lawrence took the ball on downs. Briese punting after Hilton ran the first attempted kick. Peterson's 40-yard place kick failed and then Lawrence braced up. Bloomer picked a hole in the line for 25-yards and completed a pass to Barfield as the half ended.

La Bara Ranks As Youngest And Oldest Of Pug Champs

Los Angeles—The youngest and yet the oldest pugilist champion of the world—such is Fidel La Bara, Los Angeles flyweight.

La Bara has just turned 21, making him the youngest mitt slinger in number of years to sit on a world throne.

But he has held his title for one year and two months, making him the oldest champion—in period of reign—to wear a boxing crown.

Since La Bara lifted the burdens of being flyweight champion from Frankie Genaro's shoulders in August, 1925, the title in every other recognized division has changed hands.

The great Jack Dempsey, champion of all champions, has fallen into disrepair, while handsome Gene Tunney, fighting marine, rules the heavy-weight division. The Terrell-Henry bout was the highlight of the night and now wears the crown of the light-heavyweights.

The infallible Harry Greb, who defied all rules of boxing and still was unbeatable, finally succumbed before Tiger Flowers, the Georgia deacon.

Mickey Walker, fighting little Irishman, who was often spoken of as a "junior" Dempsey, reached the end of his reign when he met Peter Latzo, Pennsylvania mining boy.

Pinky Mitchell, junior, welter champion, decisively beaten by Mushy Callahan, Los Angeles newsboy, just two nights before the great Jack took his punishment. Jimmy Goodrich, crowned lightweight champion by the New York boxing commission, fell before the onslaught of veteran Rocky Kansas. And Kansas' reign was short, as he was unable to cope with the class swabber by Sammy Mandell in their third bout last June.

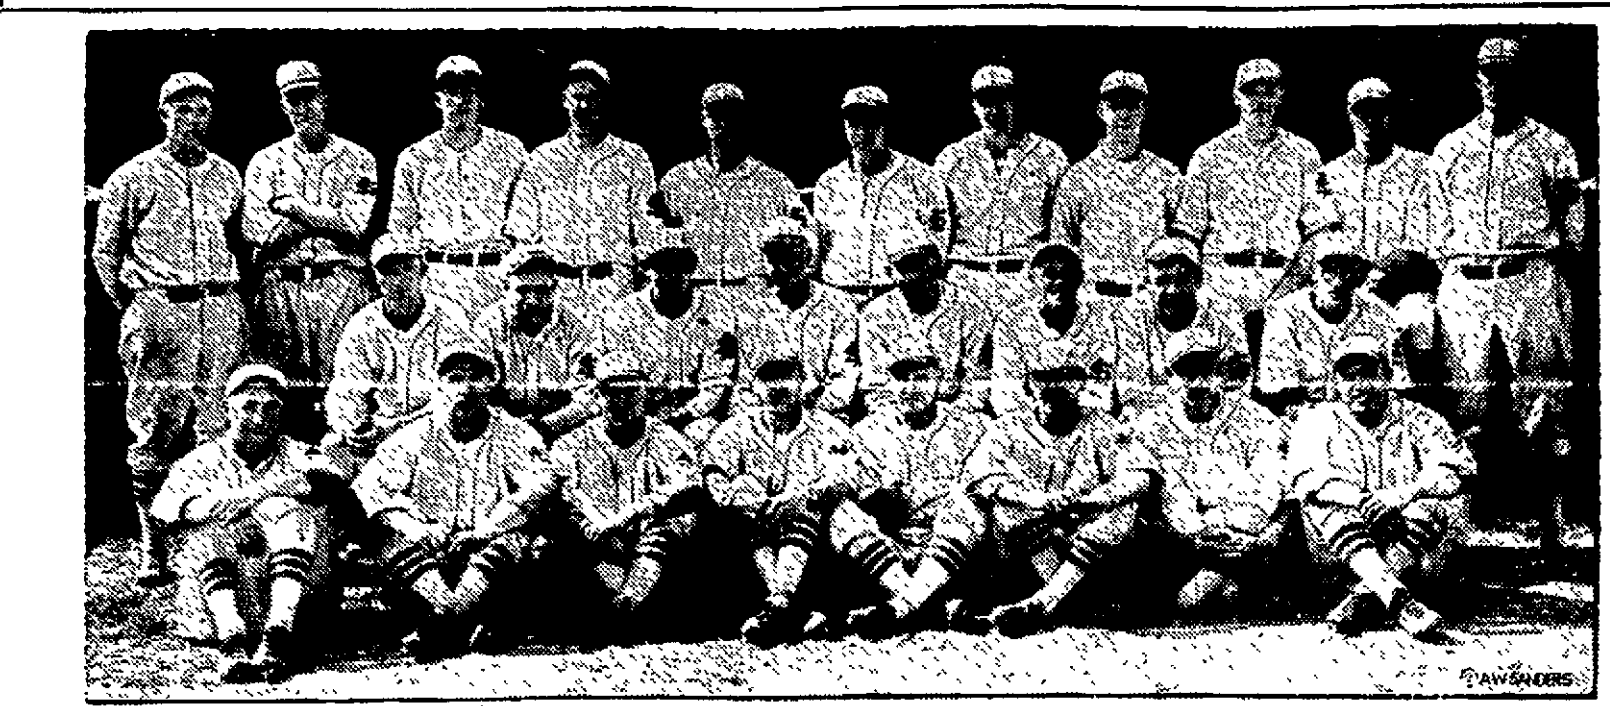

Tod Morgan lifted the junior lightweight crown from Mike Belterino's head without much difficulty last December in Los Angeles. Kid Kaplan found that he could no longer make 125 pounds and abdicated as king of the featherweights.

Charlie "Phil" Rosenberg was "outlawed" and shorn of his championship by the Illinois boxing body for failing to post his forfeit for his match with Bud Taylor. However, boxing men agree that the Terrell-Henry bout would have had little difficulty in handling Rosenberg a sound drubbing—if the opinion of boxing experts means anything after the Dempsey-Tunney affair.

But little Fidel La Bara still rules the "babes" of the squared circle and there doesn't seem to be any dangerous rival looming on the horizon.

There have been rumors that La Bara may get a crack at Bud Taylor's new bantamweight title, but nothing definite has come of it yet.

PACKERS DROP HARD GAME TO CARDINALS

Sub Backfield of Purdy, Kotal, McAuliffe, L. D. Berg Features Hard Play

Green Bay — The Big Bay Blues, pride of Green Bay and adjoining cantons went down in defeat Sunday before the Chicago Cardinals by a score of 13 to 7 in a battle which kept a crowd of 5,500 in hysteria for the better part of the afternoon. Left fielder Purdy, center guard and Hilton to end Heideman for Nason, Johnson for Ott, Steinsland going to Ott's tackle and Art taking guard, Weinkauff for Johnson, Hunter for Briese, Dreher for Heideman, Johnson for Artz, Heideman for Nason, Hillman for Hilton; Oshkosh—Baxter for Banderobbi, Christ for Zimmerman, Schmidt for Feeney for Baxter, Kilgas for Feeney.

A thing of pathos traces St. Louis' recollections of the stirring days of the series title fight, for more sober thoughts recall that Hornsby must go on to Austin, Texas, to attend his mother's burial. He has announced he will take the first available train for the southwest after his arrival here.

The ludicrous element continues apace. Numerous signs have appeared suggesting the elevation of Hornsby, Alexander, Thevenow and other heroes of the club to positions of honor from mayor to president.

WASHINGTON FOUND RED SOX WERE EASY

The largest margin of victories one club had over another during the recent American League season was put over by Washington at the expense of the lowly Red Sox. The Senators whipped the Beaneaters in 18 out of 21 tilts. In Boston they're still wondering how Phil's team succeeded in taking the other three games.

A punt on his 48-yard line, Normal recovering. On the first play a Lawrence man missed an easy tackle and Feeney cut through the right side of the line and around left and for 33 yards before being run out of bounds by Briese. Four plays netted seven yards and Lawrence took the ball on the 3-yard line and punted out of danger. The final quarter brought in the punting duel until the game ended.

Dave's Dots And Dashes

With the short football season, a team that loses a game in the valley conference has only a slight chance for first place. Such now is the case with the Orange though it has a good chance for second. First is not impossible should the loyal boys win the rest of their games while the strong West Green Bay squad or the East high crew which showed surprising strength Saturday's trip against Marlquette. As it is Friday's defeat will show the loyalty of the student body. The rooters were out in full force at Fondy totaling as many as the Red supporters. We do not believe that now that the squad has lost a game this will let down, but that the school will back the boys as well as ever the rest of the way and the team will scrap harder than ever.

Coach Bill Smith and his Kaukauna boys got an eyeeful which won't do them any good. They saw a poor Appleton team in action, not the team which beat Manitowish, Bill was heard to remark, "Well, Appleton opened its bag of tricks but nothing happened." Wait, Tiger, you only saw the mouth of the bag.

We have no alibis on the game as Fondy clearly outplayed Appleton the second half after the Orange had a 6-0 lead. However, if there are any poorer officials in valley conference circles, we hope they don't handle an Appleton game. They took the heat out of the boys with their decisions and they were aided by some big bug on the fire and police commission who thought it great stuff to take up Shild's time during the game with his arguments.

The first bad decision came when Appleton was penalized for checking signals just because they used the huddle system, while any team has that right and it isn't classed as stalling, though the huddle takes a few seconds longer. Then a Fondy man caught a pass on the ground and rose and tore for the goal after the whistle blew. Johnston threw him to the ground, not wanting to see another "Michigan-Wisconsin" play. The runner appealed to the referee saying that the local boy roughed. The ref failed to see it but asked his umpire who said Johnston had thrown the runner to the ground. Next, 15 yards for roughing ball on the local 10-yard line.

Wisconsin got one 25 yard penalty Saturday for clipping. Fondy did it all afternoon Friday but the officials didn't know clipping from punting. Every time a local end outspun a Fondy interloper in getting down under a punt he was clipped from the rear as he reached for the runner. On one play a Fondy man went 50 yards on a punt right to the local goal because Fondy clipped four would-be tacklers. Three were stretched out along the field in order and two had to be carried from the field yet the officials failed to see any clipping. We suppose they were following the ball. When both sides razz an official at a grid game, he's pretty poor. Fondy booed the ref for five minutes after one let 12.

Green Bay's line was also great, but their backfield did not function very smoothly. The subs, Purdy, Kotal and McAuliffe, were more brilliant than the regulars all of whom, however, were slowed up by leg injuries. Little Purdy played a remarkable game. The lineup:

Cardinals — L. E. O'Donnell, Ellis, L. G. Woodin, Claypool, C. Earpe, Brennan, R. G. Gardner, Weller, R. T. Cyre, McInerney, R. E. Harris, Dunn, Q. Mats, Kohler, J. H. Louche, McDonald, R. H. Lamb, Substitutions—Packers, Rossati for Jean, Jean for Woodin, McAuliffe for Lewellen, Purdy for Mats, Kotal for Lamb, Lidsberg for Enright, Flaherty for Harris, Lambach for Kotal, Lewellen for McAuliffe, Harris for Flaherty.

Cardinals — Mahoney for Lamb, Green for Brennan, Frances for Kohler, McElwain for McDonald, Lamb for Mahoney, Brennan for Green, Kohler for Frances, McDonald for McElwain, Green for Lamb, Mahoney for McInerney, Frances for Kohler, Ericson for McDonald, Hogan for Brennan.

SHORT PASS SAFER, ERNIE NEVERS SAYS

Former All-American Back Thinks Curbing Use of Pass Hurts Football

BY ERNIE NEVERS
The forward pass is football's most thrilling play. Incidentally, it is the game's greatest threat. Much grid strategy can be pulled from fake formations that have all the flavor of a forward pass play. I repeat, any reforms tended to curb the use of the pass, are detrimental to the best interests of the game. It is a pretty good play as is and should be let alone.

Dartmouth was one of the outstanding teams of last year. No one faulted the very best way to throw the pass is overhand, from the shoulder not side-arm or underhand. Invariably a player attempting to block a pass will leap in the air slightly as he throws his body at you. His arms are usually stretched high in the air.

Using the overhand pass, you have a chance to complete the pass by throwing it between the upstretched arms. I made a number of such passes last year. The chances, therefore, to block a side-arm or underhand pass are infinitely greater than one thrown from the shoulder.

The shorter passes, say from 10 to 20 yards, while lacking the thrill of the longer pass, are far more certain. A snap pass is the best to use when the player about to receive it is free from the line. A lob pass is the proper style when the ball is heaved to a halfback in the line. I like to throw my passes so that the receiver has to jump slightly to nab them. It is better if the receiver is going with the ball as it lessens the danger of intercepting it.

A good passer helps his chances for success by constantly faking. He should never look in the direction of the man ultimately to receive the pass. The best passing plays always have two or three men free to handle the ball.

GLENN COLLETT LOST CHANCE TO TIE MARK
When Glenn Collett was eliminated in one of the late rounds in the recent women's national golf tournament, the little Providence princess lost a chance to equal a record that has stood alone for six seasons—winning the crown twice in succession.

Not since Alexa Stirling (the present Mrs. Fraser) successfully defended her title at the Mayfield Country Club, Cleveland, has a champion turned the trick. True, Miss Collett did bag the honors twice, but not in successive campaigns.

In 1921, Marion Hollins came home in front; in 1922, it was Miss Collett; in 1923, Miss Edith Cummings; 1924, Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd and last year Miss Collett. None could repeat, however, while in the role of defending queen.

If the Scriptures distributed by the Papan agency of the American Bible Society during 1925 could be piled up, copy by copy, they would run up into space about 14,818 feet, or 1,489 feet higher than the mountain Fuji. It laid out end to end they would extend 80 miles.

King snakes and gopher snakes are said to make good pets.

FROSH RUNNER COPS ALL-COLLEGE RACE

Rohan, Kaukauna, Crowned Blue Intermural Cross-country Champion

Emmett Rohan, Kaukauna, a freshman, walked off with all college honors in the 1926 Lawrence college cross-country run Saturday afternoon, covering the 3 1/2 mile course in 23:03.3. He finished several yards ahead of the second place winner, Arnold Purvis of Appleton, captain of the 1925 Lawrence cross-country squad, and a distance man on the track team. The meet was run off before the Lawrence-Oshkosh Normal grid game at Whiting field, the runners starting and finishing at the field.

Purvis finished second after a thrilling neck-and-neck sprint to the tape with Wolf, a freshman. Fourth place went to Jesse Miller and fifth to Jacobson, sixth: Pirkerton, Seventh: Fischl, eighth: Scheuman, ninth: and Busch, tenth.

The winner is intermural champion for the year and receives a medal for his victory. The event is the first on the intermural program this year.

NORMAL SQUAD TIES CARROLL CREW, 0-0

Waukesha — The highly touted orange of Carroll was stopped in its tracks by the fighting green of Milwaukee Normal State Teachers here Saturday in a scoreless game that was replete with thrills. The Milwaukee team was completely bewildered, the Waukesha team with its smooth running and passing attack. At no time did the Pioneers seriously threaten the Emerald line, while Coach Clapp's charges were in the shadow of the Orange's goal several times but lacked the final punch to put the ball over.

CORNELL CREW WHIPS BELOIT SQUAD, 17-0

Beloit—Cornell's well balanced football team swept Beloit of its feet, in the 1926 Midwest conference game of the season here Saturday, 17 to 0. The local players performed in a listless manner and failed to display the aggressiveness expected, although they succeeded in holding the foe three times within the 5-yard line.

Because of the miners' strike, Great Britain has had to use 600,000 tons of foreign coal since the workers went out.

Thank You!
The Appleton Post-Crescent takes this occasion to thank those who assisted in making a success of the report of world series baseball game on the Playograph. The Post-Crescent is particularly grateful to the Y. M. C. A. for its permission to erect the board on its building and to use its tennis courts for accommodation of spectators. Without the help of the Y. M. C. A., it would be extremely difficult to give the play by play report which it can be readily seen. The Post-Crescent also is grateful to the Hettlinger Lumber Co. and the Appleton Hub and Spoke Co. for loan of lumber and blocks which used for seats, to the police department and the city of Appleton for the help that was given.

Hoople Advises Huggins To Buy Big Alex To Win Series

BY MAJOR HOOPLE
Yankee Stadium, New York—Egad, folks, at the conclusion of Sunday's game a special messenger was ushered to my seat in the press box, with instructions that I should proceed immediately to a waiting limousine outside the stadium. The call was from James Walker, the honorable mayor of New York.

It seems an embarrassment of etiquette toward visiting royalty had the civic head of New York in confusion. Queen Marie of Rumania, bless her, is scheduled to arrive in New York very shortly, and while New York has been in host for visiting princess, a queen demands the most exacting of etiquette, tact and diplomacy. Naturally, I was the man for the occasion. The question in mind was who would extend the official greetings to her highness, the mayor or the governor of New York, and if one or both should occupy a seat in the royal brougham, egad, a delicate bit of etiquette arbitration.

After thinking the weighty matter over carefully, for a moment I recalled a similar experience in Slam when the Empress visited the Province of Wu T'ang. His excellency, the burghmaster of Nek Tey and his honor, the inspector of weights at Sam Aue, suffered the same predicament. I was summoned to settle the question and suggested that both of the gentlemen should sham a severe case of tonsillitis, thereby rendering either of the unfit to extend the civic vocal welcome and that I would be their oral proxy, and greet the 'empress in ancient Sanskrit. ROCKNE WIN OVER GOPHERS COSTLY

Gloomy Knute More Pessimistic as Two Stars of Team Are Injured

Chicago—(AP)—Coach Knute Rockne, the greatest pessimist in football history, dusted off that ancient gag of his Saturday that Notre Dame didn't have a chance in the world against Minnesota and then saw his team of fighting South Benders walk the Gophers 20 to 7.

Rockne said dearily, however for his initial victory in Western Conference confines, Boland, one of the outstanding forwards in the middle west and important cog in the Notre Dame machine, suffered a broken right leg early in the game. Rockne starts Monday to develop another tackle, and he also must find another full back to take the place of Collins, who has a broken jaw.

Except for Spears, other Big Ten teams won their contest last Saturday rather handily and this week are rounding into shape for the real opening of the conference season. Interest centered on the Minnesota-Michigan game at Ann Arbor. It promised to be a real test for the Gophers for Michigan not only has a good line but a first class passer in Benny Friedman.

Chicago which has won two pre-conference season contests—moves eastward to try Pennsylvania which swamped Swarthmore last Saturday. The Maroons have been featuring a passing game. Iowa made a noticeable improvement in the last week as its 40 to 7 score over North Dakota indicates while Ohio looms in the front rank by reason of the 47 to 0 win.

HAMLINE TRIPS RED IN GAME AT FONDY

Fond du Lac—In a well played game between two closely matched teams, Hamline university of St. Paul showed enough margin of superiority to defeat Ripon college at Ripon 9 to 0 Saturday.

A place kick by McCoy, left end, within the first three minutes of play and a third quarter touchdown that followed a series of passes and a penalty that took the ball from midfield to the Ripon 3-yard line scored Hamline's winning point. Becklund, Hamline's halfback, took the ball over on the fourth down inside the 3-yard line.

AGE, YOUTH COMBINE
IN FINAL CARD WIN

Alexander, Tommy Thevenow Lead Way to Victory and Extra Cash

New York—(P)—Athletes, whose vim and vitality gave the cowbells of St. Louis a chance to ring again when many Missourians feared they were to be forever mute were found for St. Louis Monday, figuring how much one can buy with $5,584.51. This sum represents the money to be paid each member of the St. Louis Cardinals for winning the world series.

The New York Yankees are calculating the purchasing power of $3,477.75 and reflecting that the difference in the size of the checks was determined by one $50,000 run.

The Cardinals won the seventh and deciding game of the world series 3 to 2.

A $50,000 knockout was engineered by the old master Alexander. Two plays and a hit by Thevenow also meant money, and Yankee misuses were costly.

In the final pulsating contest, played under leaden skies threatening to weep with the Yankees at any moment, age and youth showed the way. Grover Cleveland Alexander, 38, and Thomas Joseph Thevenow, 23, claimed between them the place in the sun they would have had if there had been a sun.

Records proved scraps of paper in the series. Marks for attendance and receipts went by the board with a compilation of $25,051 cash customers who paid $1,207,861.

Babe Ruth crashed his way to seven records. His three home runs in game and a four in the closing made editing of the record books necessary. Making four runs in a game, driving in as many, receiving 11 bases on balls in the series and other minor efforts marked his activities. He made six hits and lifted his batting average for seven world series to .253.

All told, 19 records fell and three others were tied.

For the third year in succession the classic was extended to its natural limit of seven games and for the third time in as many seasons the ultimate winner came from behind.

CARDS LEAD YANKS
IN ALL BUT ERRORS

Thevenow Hammers Ball for
.417 Mark; Southworth
Bottomley Close

New York—(P)—Figures tell the story of the Cardinals supremacy in world series play. The Yankees led in errors and not much else. Thevenow hammered the ball for the most impressive percentage of the games .417 and tied his team mates, Southworth and Bottomley for the high hit total with ten. Thevenow led his team in run scoring with five, just one behind Babe Ruth, who led all the players.

The Cardinals went to bat 223 times to 239 for the Yankees, drove out hits for a total of 94 bases while the opposition was hitting only 54 times for 78, and thereby amassed a team batting average of .272 or 30 points higher than the American leaguers. Ruth smashed records with his four home runs but the Cardinals scored 31 times while the Yanks were scoring 10 times less. The Cardinals drove out 12 doubles to ten for the Huguenots.

Each team had one triple. Seven Yankee errors pulled the fielding average down to .975. The Cardinals, with five errors fielded .983.

The Cardinals made six double plays, to three for the Yankees. This one New Yorker got bases on balls to eleven for St. Louis.

One upset in valley conference grid circles over the weekend out the first place tie between the teams instead of four of the week before. The big upset came when a supposedly weak Fondy du Lac team uncorked a surprise pass attack to beat Appleton. The other favorites won in easy fashion. East high spanked Oshkosh hard, 33-0, and Marinette shoved over a 20-0 win on Manitowoc. West Green Bay tripped Sheboygan, 29-6.

SOUSA'S MEDALS
DECORATE BREAST

Famous Bandmaster Has Been Decorated by Many Foreign Sovereigns

Six medals conferred by four governments may be worn by Lieut. Com. John Philip Sousa, famous band director, who will play in Appleton with his famous band at the Lawrence Memorial chapel on Thursday afternoon and evening.

The military medals especially have pleased the bandmaster. These are three of them: The Victory medal and the Officers of the War medal received during the World War, and the Spanish war medal of the Sixth Army corps.

Sousa was decorated by three foreign countries during his world tour several years ago. From the late King Edward of England, he received the decoration of the Victorian Order, while from the Academy of Fine Arts medal, The Palms of the Academy was given to him by the French nation.

Because of the risks of travel and because of the size of some of the medals, the Lieutenant commander does not wear the originals, but has had them reproduced in uniform size, in miniature. The reproductions are faithful copies, both as to medal and ribbon, and are said to have cost more than $1,000. The originals are kept in a vault.

Sousa will play two entirely different programs in Appleton, and the soloists will appear in both performances. New marches, humorous selections, suites and numbers in a more serious vein will be included, and the program will be chiefly marches, as the Sousa followers all over the country have requested.

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

CHAPTER VII
Both CHERRY LANE, 18, beautiful, and an unscrupulous flirt, and FAITH LANE, 20, stay-at-home drudge for the Lane family of six, are attracted to BOB HATHAWAY, whom their father brings home to dinner, in an endeavor to land a job of engineering for which Mr. Lane has bid. Cherry, by a trick, manages to take all credit for the delicious dinner Faith has prepared, and whisks Bob Hathaway off to a movie, leaving Faith to brood over her failure to attract him and to despise herself for her effort at playing Cherry's game of deliberate flirting.

That night Cherry slips out of the house after midnight to have a rendezvous with CHERRY LANE, a man of unsavory reputation, who screams for help when he tries to abduct her. She lies to her father, telling him she never saw her assailant before, but she admits the truth to Faith, who upbraids her. Cherry is not seriously disturbed, and coaxes Faith into a good humor by promising to tell her what Bob Hathaway said about her.

"Bob said you'd make a wonderful wife for some young fellow," Cherry reports. "The next morning JUNIOR, 21, and wild, telephones his sister, Faith, that he and his sweetheart have been arrested for speeding. Faith pawns everything of value she owns and raises the money, rather than tell her father.

Cherry, after promising to buy Faith a dress, brings home material which Faith cannot possibly use, and Faith threatens to tell her mother the story of the attempted abduction.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VIII

"Faith," Cherry springs to her sister, threw her arms around her neck, whispered gaspingly, "Don't tell! Faith! I'll make it up to you! Please!" "What does this mean?" Mrs. Lane demanded. "I told you I didn't sleep a wink last night, and I didn't. Now, what did you mean, young lady?" "Nothing," Faith took Cherry's arms from about her neck and began to clear the dining table of its day-time litter of patterns, scraps and sewing basket. "Cherry just got in late last night—that's all."

"I heard her," Mrs. Lane put an arm about Cherry, who was still trembling with fright. "It was eleven o'clock, wasn't it, honey?" "A little bit after eleven," Cherry's voice quivered with tears. "I'm sorry you don't like the goods, Faith. I—I thought it was so pretty."

Mrs. Lane waddled painfully to the table and fingered the beautiful, exotic materials appreciatively. "I think it's a grand piece of goods, Cherry, honey. And you was real sweet to buy it for Faith with your own money, no matter how ungrateful she is. Shame on you, Faith, to make Cherry cry, when she was only tryin' her best to be good to you!"

"Mother, you and Cherry both know as well as I do that she bought the goods for herself, not for me. She knew I couldn't wear it. She knew I had in the spring. Let's no pretend, Cherry. You'll have two lovely dresses, and I'll make them for you—as usual."

"Now, Faith, clear off this table and get it set for supper," her mother said. "Your Pa'll be home any minute now. What you got for supper?"

"String beans and new potatoes, boiled with that ham hock, and sliced tomatoes and Brown Betty pudding. I'm trying to economize Mother. And it's so hot we don't really need meat." Faith swallowed the lump in her throat and tried to smile.

"Oh, dear, what a meal to ask Chester to sit down to!" Cherry exclaimed, her fright forgotten. Of course old Faith would not tell on her!

Joy, dirty-faced and in a torn, soiled play dress, had come in and was standing open-mouthed with excitement. "I seen—I mean, I SAW—Chester Hart kissin' Cherry last Sunday, when you was freazin' the ice cream, Faith! Smack on the mouth it was! Gee, he's a reg'lar kissin' bug, ain't he? I thought he was goin' to eat Cherry up—"

"Muggs, will you make that child behave?" Cherry's face was scarlet. "What Chester Hart did Sunday, or does in the future, doesn't make the slightest difference to me." Faith said steadily, as she flung the white tablecloth over the big round table. "But if the meal I've cooked for the family isn't good enough for Chester Hart, then you can go cook something yourself, Cherry."

Long Lane's tempestuous arrival broke the tension. "Yoo, hoo, folks! Got a job today?" Seizing Cherry around the waist, he began to Charleston, his long-legged gyrations shaking the imitation cut glass on the sideboard.

"Stop makin' a clown o' yourself, Junior!" his mother seized his arm and shook him affectionately. "What kinda job, son?" "Sellin' automobile accessories for a jobber, but I gotta buy me a second-hand Ford. Travelin' job," he concluded proudly. "Commission basis."

"Where are you going to get the money for a Ford?" Faith forced him to meet her eyes. "From Gran'pa," he grinned at her. "Saw him today. He'll actually own the bus, but will let me drive it, and pay him for it out of my commissions. Say, Faith, say a friend of yours today. Got a message for you," he said loudly, as he followed her hastily into the kitchen, before his mother could question him about his alibi absence.

"What's the dope, sis?" he asked cheerfully. "How'd you get the coin without strikin' Dad for it? Gee, you're a peach, old dear." He kissed her smackingly on the mouth. She told him briefly how she had raised the money, then, shaking him by the shoulders, and holding his eyes with hers, she said with low-toned, passionate emphasis:

"I won't do it again for you, Junior. I swear I won't! And you've got to pay me back—every red cent of it. I don't know how I'm going to make up that ten dollars I took out of the housekeeping money, and I'll be darned if I go without a suit this winter because you got pinched for speeding in that terrible girl's car."

"Aw, Sis, I'll pay you back," he stammered, reddening. "Of course I will. Haven't I got a job already? Tom Tate, who put me wise to this job, says he's making sixty to seventy-five a week. You won't be sorry, kid. Honest! I'll pay you something every week."

"I believe you will, Junior," she smiled at him through quick tears. Cherry, in a burst of gratitude to Faith, which she could not express before her mother without arousing suspicion, was setting the table, when Faith went back into the dining room. The long-drawn honk of a motor car interrupted Cherry at her unaccustomed task. She stopped to peer into the sideboard mirror, fuffed her hair with her fingers, then ran, skipping joyously, yodeling in her high musical voice:

"Yoo hoo, Chester! How's the sheik? Oh, boy! His Lizzie's had a bath! And look at the golf pants my boy friend's sportin'! Nize baby!" After supper, which has been a painful affair, darkened by Mr. Lane's disapproval of Chester Hart's presence at his board, whose hospitality he considered insulted by the young garage mechanic's switching of his affections from Faith to Cherry, the two sisters and the fickle young man were in possession of the living room.

Mr. and Mrs. Lane had taken their favorite chairs on the front porch, for Faith was playing a shrill game of "hide and seek" in the street with the neighborhood children, and Long Lane had gone off on what he called, mysteriously, "a heavy date with my Sheba."

Faith Lane, looking splendidly cool and calm and unconcerned for a girl who has been superseded in her "steady" affections by her sister, sat at the piano, her well-shaped but work-marked hands resting gracefully on the keys. She had been playing "Bye Bye" but now Cherry, perched on the arm of the davenport, on which Chester Hart lolled at ease, was strumming her ukulele, and singing, in a small, sweet staccato voice, "That Certain Party."

Faith was dressed in her freshly laundered last summer's white crash, embroidered in a barbaric design with purple and green wool. Cherry wore an accordion-pleated white crepe de chine skirt, with a golden-yellow silk smock, that intensified the brilliant copper-and-gold of her hair and almost exactly matched the tope of her eyes.

Chester Hart, a little embarrassed and apologetic, in spite of his apparent ease, watched both sisters, his pale gray eyes appealing and ashamed when they rested on Faith, eager and covetous when they caught the fire from Cherry's brilliant eyes.

"Say, girls," Chester began eagerly, when Cherry had finished her song. "I met George Pruitt on my way out here this evening, and he asked me if he could come along later, after supper, and go to the movies with us. What d'you say? George's a dandy sport. Just come back from New York. He was studyin' to be an artist, but his old man made him come back to work in the store. You know—Pruitt's Wholesale Grocery on Market street."

"Oh, Chester, how thrilling! The son of THE Lincoln Pruitts! Why, they're millionaires! You old darling!" Cherry rumbled Chester's smooth brown hair with excited fingers. He caught her hand with clumsy bravado, started to kiss her rosy fingers, then, with a shamefaced glance at Faith, who turned her head quickly away, he slapped her hand lightly instead.

"Now, Cherry, don't you be up to no tricks with George! He's seen 'em all—swellest chickens in New York—and he says real live models don't give him a kick! I sorta thought you'd like him, Faith. You—you're always wantin' somebody that can swing a mean line o' highbrow talk."

He's been to college, and to are school—sold a couple pictures too. Bet you'll fall for him hard."

"Thanks, Chester, for the donation," Faith answered, with a slow smile. Why had she been so angry with Cherry for taking this stupid boy away from her? He had bored her for weeks. And she was starved for someone who could really talk—

"I hear a car!" Cherry tossed the "uke" to the davenport and excitedly tugged at Chester's coat lapel. "Come along! Oh, wouldn't it be fun if he's paint my picture, Chester? Tell him to, won't you? Please! If you do, I'll—you know what!"

She lowered her voice mysteriously, pursed her lips, smiled up at the stocky, stolid-faced young man provocatively. "On the gravel walk, Chester, with Cherry clinging to his arm, greeted his friend. "Hello, George! How's the old sport? Wancha to meet Miss Cherry Lane! Betcha ain't got a Folliess girl in al New York can hold a candle to her!"

George Pruitt, rugged, broad, almost squat, snatched his hat from his hatch of rusted hair, and twinkled his small, bright black eyes at Cherry.

"It's great of you to let me butt in like this!" he told her, as they stepped upon the porch. Cherry introduced him hurriedly to her mother and father, then, tugging at his arm with a pretty show of excitement, pulled him into the living room. Faith rose, her splendid body seeming very tall beside her fluttering little sister.

"This is Faith, Mr. Pruitt. Heavens! I almost called you George! Aren't I a case? Faith is my darling big sister." From her tone you would have thought she was ten and Faith at least thirty.

But George Pruitt was staring incredulously at Faith. "Good Lord!" he exclaimed "I didn't know they grew them like you any more, Miss Lane!"

ORDINANCE OVER TREE CONTROL IS NOT LIKELY HERE

Park Commission Has Enough to Do Now Without Adding More, Mayor Says.

Adoption of a city ordinance here placing the control of trees located between the lot line and curb in the hands of the park commission, similar to the action recently taken in Madison, is not probable or advisable at present, according to Mayor Albert C. Rule.

"With park improvements now occupying a large part of the commission's time, it does not seem wise to add any more burdens to that body just now," Mayor Rule said. "Furthermore, there apparently is no need for such action in Appleton. If the need is felt in the future, it can be adopted at that time."

Under present conditions, property owners themselves care for all trees located on their land. If they fail to have their trees trimmed, the city does it for the property owners charging the work up to the latter.

Some of the important features of the Madison ordinance are as follows: "No person, corporation, or association shall plant, cut, prune or remove any living tree over three inches in diameter at a point three feet above the ground in a public highway in the City of Madison, or cut, disturb or interfere in any way with the roots of any such tree to the extent of causing serious injury to such tree in such public highway, or spray any such trees with any chemicals or insecticides without written permit of the Madison Park and Pleasure Drive association."

"No shade or ornamental tree shall be planted in any of the public highways of the City of Madison until such tree and the place where it is to be planted shall have first been approved by the Madison Park and Pleasure Drive association. "No person shall place or maintain upon the ground, in a public highway of the City of Madison, stone, cement, lumber or other substance or material which shall impede the free passage of water and air to any tree in such highway without leaving an open space of ground outside the trunk of said

Chesty Autoist Meets His Waterloo In Traffic Cop

A certain party is thanking his lucky star and probably resolving, that never again will he try to force a car to stay behind him. Here is the story as told by one of the parties.

The first car, a small coupe containing four passengers was going east on Walter-ave and a second car approached from behind and signalled to pass. The driver of the first car looked back and laughed rather scornfully and held the center of the road. The second car took the ditch to pass and while trying to get back on the road the first car again tried to force him in the ditch. In the encounter the hub caps of the cars hooked and the small coupe came out second best. The driver of the other kept going.

Hoping to collect for his damages the driver of the coupe gave chase and raced along at 30 miles an hour after the first car. Following him east across John-st bridge he finally overtook the car in the middle of John-st hill and to his surprise the driver of the second car stopped and got out.

Two husky men jumped from the pursuing car and, demanded compensation.

Then the driver of the second car threw open his coat and displayed his police badge. It was an officer. Well, everyone knows how a traffic officer can orate. And he orated. He told the fellow he had a notion to arrest him on three charges—speeding, reckless driving and having four passengers in a coupe when a state law says two is the limit. The officer was a good sport, however, and allowed the man to proceed on his way after a warning.

such association shall have the right and power to establish rules and regulations relating to the planting, maintenance, protection, and care of such trees, and it shall be the duty of said association to recommend to the common council of the City of Madison the enactment of such ordinances as it may deem necessary to protect said trees.

"The entire cost of protecting, trimming, spraying, planting, renewing and removal of trees between the lot lines and the curb in front of any lot or parcel of land abutting on a street, avenue or boulevard shall be chargeable to and assessed upon such lot or parcel of land."

BEAUTY in WINDOWS

Too many people think this window—when they give any thought to them at all—are nothing but holes in the wall filled with glass. That is why so many houses today lack interest or charm.

The builder with taste thinks differently. He knows that with the proper spacing of the right size and kind of windows, he can make even the plainest, most inexpensive house actually beautiful.

The picture above shows a Curtis window. Note the interesting little panes and the thin muntins that divide them. The sills and rails are delicately molded to give beauty in detail as well as general appearance.

But beauty in Curtis windows is not all you get. The check-rail of this window is so constructed that it puts up seven times as much resistance to the entrance of wind as ordinary check rails. That is but one example of Curtis quality.

Come in and talk over your window requirements with us. See our stock of other Curtis designs, too. Get a copy of an interesting, illustrated book, "Curtis Woodwork." It is free.

SALESMAN PASSES BAD CHECK FOR $18

Signs Name of Pace and Royan and Cashes Check at Hotel

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Signing the names of Pace and Royan to a check for $18 which originally had been written by Jaber Sofia of the Sofia pool hall for $8, another small "sharper" was cashed unopposed with the cash in hand. The incident came to the notice of the Farmer's State bank when the man in question asked them to cash the check. The bank refused the service, however, since the check was made out to a Chicago firm. New London's recent experiences in this particular type of rascality, having made many bankers cautious, the man who claimed to be the representative of a Chicago establishment returned to the Elwood hotel for the night. Hotel attaches cashed the check the next morning. The cancelled check for $18 being returned to Mr. Sofia raised the doubt in the mind as to the authenticity of the deal. A telegram sent to the Chicago firm received the reply to the effect that no man of the name given by the visitor was in the company's employ. It stated furthermore that the company had no road representatives, conducting all its business by mail. Investigations into the nature of the hoax reveal that the same fraud by supposedly the same man have been perpetrated all over the state and that the man whose movements are only a few jumps ahead of the law at the present time gives a new name with every check.

COMPANY SHIPS CAR OF TESTED MILK TO CHICAGO EVERY DAY

Weyauwega Dairy Delivers Product of Tuberculin Tested Herds

Special to Post-Crescent
Weyauwega—The Weyauwega Dairy Products company is shipping whole milk to Chicago now. Glass tank cars are used, which hold 40,000 pounds of milk, and one car a day is being shipped at present. The company has a contract to deliver this amount. The condensary is receiving milk from farmers of Waupaca County, and also from farmers outside of the county, all of which is from tuberculin tested herds.

Tuesday evening as Rev. J. B. Lewis and father, M. E. Lewis of Weyauwega, were returning from the farm home of the latter's son, Edw. Lewis to attract the attention of the driver. Both cars were badly damaged. Mr. Lewis and father had left their car, and thus escaped injury. CALUMET - GO HOLDS TWO MEN, ONE WOMAN IN THEFT OF AUTO

Owner of Car Gives Chase When He Sees It Disappear Down Road

Stockbridge — Three persons were arrested Monday morning in an investigation into the theft Sunday night of the Buick roadster owned by Frank Gerhartz of Stockbridge, from the street in front of St. Mary church. A second car bearing a Milwaukee license plate was alleged to have been left by the same three persons in Stockbridge on Sunday.

Mr. Gerhartz was attending a bazaar at the church. When he left the hall he found his car gone but saw a car similar to his own driven down the street. He hailed a passing machine and gave chase. About five miles from the village the pursuing car caught up with the roadster. Mr. Gerhartz and his companions fired.

The roadster was forced into a ditch and the occupants, two men and a woman, escaped, presumably into a nearby cornfield. Sheriff John Dietrich was called and a search was made of the field, but nothing was found. The bearings in the roadster were found to be burned out and the fender was bent when the car was run into the ditch.

Mrs. Joseph Goesser, Stockbridge, telephoned the sheriff Monday morning that three persons were waiting near her home apparently waiting for the Milwaukee bus to arrive and the sheriff, with his deputy and a motorcycle officer arrived and took them into custody. They will be held at the Clinton jail until an investigation has been made. One of the men gave his age as 33 years, the other as 29 years and the woman said to be the latter's wife, 23 years. Their names were not learned.

LOAN ASSOCIATION TO MEET NEXT THURSDAY

A number of applications for loans will be considered by the Appleton Building and Loan association at the regular monthly meeting at 7:15 Thursday evening at the association offices. All applications are for several months from now as the association has no funds available for immediate loans, according to George H. Beckley, secretary.

TWO MEN TAKEN TO HOSPITAL AFTER HIGHWAY CRASH

Owner of Car, Forbidden to Drive It, Says Driver Ran Away

Two Wrightstown men are in St. Elizabeth hospital, another is suffering from cuts and bruises, two are uninjured and a Kaukauna man was slightly hurt as the result of a collision on Highway 15, about three miles from Kaukauna, about 7:30 Friday evening.

The injured, Morris Hardy, 46, Wrightstown, six broken ribs, broken shoulder and minor cuts and bruises.

Frank Theunis, 23, Wrightstown, concussion of the brain.

Don Van Vrede, Wrightstown, minor cuts and bruises.

John Guilfoyle, 604 Wisconsin-ave, Kaukauna, minor injuries.

Howard Verbeeten and Gordon Remmel, Wrightstown, were unhurt.

According to reports here Hardy, with the other four Wrightstown men, was driving from Wrightstown to Kaukauna, and stopped the car to repair the brakes. He and Theunis were standing on the concrete fixing the brakes. Van Vrede came in in the car and Remmel and Verbeeten were standing in the ditch at one side of the road when the car owned by John Guilfoyle, approaching from Wrightstown to Kaukauna without lights, struck the Hardy car from the rear.

Guilfoyle is alleged to have said that after the accident another man with him at the time was driving his car, but immediately after the collision the driver ran across a near by field and disappeared. The name of the unknown man was not learned.

Guilfoyle was fined $50 and had been forbidden to drive his car for six months by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court of Sept. 20, after his arrest as a drunken driver.

Passing motorists carried the injured man to a Kaukauna doctor and they were later taken to St. Elizabeth hospital in Appleton. Neither Hardy or Theunis was able to tell a coherent story of the accident. No action will be taken against Guilfoyle until the injured men are sufficiently recovered to make a charge, it was said Monday by Hardy's relatives.

CALL MEETING OF G. O. P. LEADERS

Republican Politicians of County Meet Thursday to Organize

Republican committeemen, precinct workers, prominent party advocates, county candidates for office at the general elections and other interested persons are invited to attend an organization meeting of the Outagamie County Republican Committee to be held in the municipal courtroom at the courthouse Thursday evening, it was announced Monday.

Fred Bachman, chairman of the county group, issued the call for the politicians to gather.

At this time definite steps will be taken to form a working committee to embrace each voting precinct of the county, it was stated.

HEAR LAWYERS' TAX REPORT ON TUESDAY

Representatives of Four Municipalities Will Meet at City Hall

Whether an appeal from their revaluation by the tax commission will be carried to the courts by Appleton, Kaukauna, Little Chute and Kimberly will be decided by attorneys representing these four municipalities Tuesday evening at a meeting here at the city hall. The meeting is scheduled for 7:30.

At a meeting at the city hall about two weeks ago, representatives of these municipalities declared themselves in favor of court action before adopting the figures of the tax commission, but several local aspects had to be cleared up before it could be determined whether such action would be advisable.

Copies of the report of Pierce Tomkins, under whom the revaluation work was conducted in the county, were submitted to attorneys of the cities and villages concerned and a recommendation on the matter is expected from them Tuesday night.

Litigation over the revaluation is being considered by the above mentioned municipalities because of the belief that they have been accorded an unjust share of the county tax.

BUILDING ACTIVITY TAKES SUDDEN JUMP

Building activity took a decided jump last week over preceding weeks when permits authorizing construction of one residence, three residences and garages, five garages, and 15 miscellaneous undertakings were issued by Walter Zschaechner, building inspector. The total estimated cost of all the projects was $55,575. The largest, single job for which application was made was for a store building, estimated to cost $7,000.

COMMISSION HEARS PHONE COMPANY PLEA

Madison—(AP)—Proposed increases in long distance telephone rates in Wisconsin were before the railroad commission here Monday when the commission met to hear the application of the Wisconsin Telephone company.

The petition asks an increase of from 5 to 25 per cent over the present schedule. The proposed new schedule increases the charges beginning at a distance of 36 miles and returns to present rates at about 130 miles. A flat increase of 25 percent is asked in the person-to-person calls between midnight and 4:30 a. m.

A special evening rate between 7:00 and 8:30 p. m. about 75 percent of the regular rate, is provided in the new schedule. The "report" charge of five cents when calls are not completed will be advanced to ten cents if the petition is granted.

$3,000 INVOLVED IN BANK'S CLAIM AGAINST SURETIES

Bankruptcy and Rentals Mixed in Case Starting in Circuit Court

An involved case in which several thousand dollars, two bankruptcy proceedings, alleged fraud and rental of an expensive construction crane are the outstanding points of litigation was to open before Judge Edgar V. Werne, tenth judicial district, as the first jury trial of the present calendar, Monday afternoon.

The litigants are the Citizens' National Bank against the Republic Casualty company, bondsmen. It was expected trial would occupy the court until Tuesday afternoon. Approximately $3,000 is involved.

In the summons and complaint it is alleged that John M. Baillet rented a crane to W. W. Whitney, then known as the Jones Island sewer job at Milwaukee. Baillet the summons declares, never received rental for his machinery; Whitney forfeited the contract and both men later went into bankruptcy.

It is contended that rental of the crane represented a sum of $2,890, including damage and repairs.

The bank seeks to recover from the bonding company money they allege was needed for the crane. Bradford and Bradford will appear for the bank while Fish, Marshutz and Hoffman are scheduled to handle the defense.

STATE BANKERS TO MEET IN MADISON

Ninth Convention of Institute of Bankers Starts on Oct. 22

Madison—(AP)—Representatives of many state banks will gather in Madison on October 22 and 23 for the ninth annual meeting of the Wisconsin chapter of the American Institute of Banking.

At Friday morning's meeting the conference will be welcomed by Knute Anderson, president Wisconsin Bankers' association. Marvin Kilton of Sheboygan, President of A. I. B., will address the meeting. Report of the Secretary, Treasurer and appointment of committees will be followed by an address by E. H. Cole, cashier.

Nomination of 1927 officers and members of the executive committee will be the principal work of the afternoon session. William Spohn, Madison, will speak on "Study Work for Bankers." L. B. Rowley, also of Madison, will discuss "How to Ascertain Your Bank Costs."

I. F. Russell, dean of Agricultural college, University of Wisconsin, will talk upon conditions in the Orient at an informal banquet.

Election of officers and executive committee will take place Saturday morning. "Advertising and New Business" is the subject of W. E. Walker, Madison. Unfinished and new business will finish the conventions serious activities. Attendance at the Wisconsin-Indiana football contest is planned for afternoon.

SALVATION ARMY MAN ARRIVES IN APPLETON

O. Krippner, representative of Salvation Army headquarters, arrived in Appleton Monday to aid in the preparation for the annual campaign of that organization here. The campaign will be under the direct sponsorship of the Salvation Army and Krippner probably will not be in the city at the time it is conducted, he indicated. The organization will seek $4,000 in a week's campaign, starting Monday, Oct. 25.

SETTLEMENTS HELP CLEAR COURT CALENDAR

Four of the 11 jury cases set for trial before Judge Edgar V. Werne at this time of circuit court were well on their way to apparent settlement by stipulation at noon Monday. It was reported. Conference between attorneys may result in even more being stricken from the calendar, it is indicated.

BIRTHS

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Fassbender, R. R. 4, Kaukauna, at St. Elizabeth hospital, Saturday.

CLOSE SCHOOL TO PREVENT SPREAD OF DIPHTHERIA

One Mackville Child Dead and Another Is Seriously Ill

St. Edward Catholic parochial school at Mackville was closed for a week Monday morning as a precaution against the spread of diphtheria following the death of a child and discovery of illness in another family. The boy who died, Raymond Griesbach, 8, had been attending St. Edward school.

Raymond, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Griesbach, town of Center farmer died Sunday afternoon after a short illness. A small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Warner, also of Center, is ill, but is expected to recover. Both homes have been quarantined, according to Frank Luedtke, Center health officer, and all precautions are being taken to prevent the spread of the disease. The school was closed voluntarily by parish authorities, according to Mr. Luedtke.

STOP SIGNALS MAY REPLACE WIG WAG ON W. COLLEGE-AVE

Board of Public Works Considers Installation of New Traffic Lights

Installation of traffic light signals to replace the wig wag signals now in place at the corner of Cherry-st and W. College-ave was considered by the board of public works which met Monday afternoon at the city hall. The wig wags were inadequate to handle the large volume of traffic at that intersection, in the opinion of city officials, and the suggestion to erect light signals at each corner has been made.

The proposed signals would be wired so that all would indicate "stop" upon the approach of trains. Such a system would insure greater safety, it is believed. The railroad company has suggested installing a wig wag at each corner.

A petition for a walk on the west side of Douglas-st and one for gravel on W. Commercial-st also was to be acted upon. The petitions presented at the last council meeting, were referred to the board with power to act. Granting of the petition for gravel depends largely upon the action of contractors in charge of the improvement work at Pierce park. It was indicated. Several thousand yards of gravel are needed at the park and a contract for gravel is let by the contractors to someone in this vicinity, the city will purchase gravel from the same source in one way indicated. If no contract is let, it is doubtful that the city will obtain the gravel in as small a quantity as it would wish, according to Mayor Rule.

The matter of refunding the cost of moving adjacent to the property of the Intervenor Country club was scheduled for consideration, as well as several other minor matters.

14 HEARINGS LISTED ON PROBATE CALENDAR

With 14 probate matters listed for hearing indications are that Tuesday in probate court will see one of the heaviest special terms in recent weeks, it was reported Monday by County Judge Edgar V. Werne.

The following estate and judicial matters have been entered for consideration of the court:

Joseph Tenie, Sr., hearing on proof of will; Albert C. Simpson, hearing on proof of will; Clarence H. Morack, petition for administration; Albert Peotter, petition for administration; Pre-emptive claims; George V. Bryant hearing on preferred claims; guardianship in the instance of Selma Ahlert, alleged spendthrift; Charles C. LUMBER DEALERS AND BUILDERS OF VALLEY MEET HERE

Guests of Manufacturers at Meeting to Discuss Grading of Lumber

H. Wilbur of Milwaukee, president of the Wisconsin Retail Lumber Dealers' association will be one of the principal speakers at the banquet for retail lumber dealers and building contractors of the Fox River valley at Conway hotel at 6:30 Monday evening. The banquet is being sponsored by the Northern Hemlock and Hardwood Manufacturers association. Standardization of lumber in sizes and grades will be discussed.

This meeting is a part of a nationwide program sponsored by the Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover. Speakers will tell retailers of the benefits of the adoption of a regulation system of grading. The average customer does not know what kind of lumber he is buying, according to Mr. Hoover, and this drive is being made for the adoption of a system that will enable the customer to more easily understand his purchases.

"More than 75 per cent of the loss incurred in the Miami disaster can be attributed to ignorance and indifference in the use of building materials," according to L. R. Putman, a representative of several large Lumber Manufacturers, who is taking an active part in the present campaign. Mr. Putman went through the stricken territory in Florida.

Mayor Albert C. Rule of Appleton, O. T. Swan of Oshkosh, secretary of the Northern Hemlock and Hardwood association and several other men will give talks.

NERVOUS TONE AT MARKET OPENING

Bear Drive Is Resumed at Start of Wall Street Trading Monday

New York—(AP)—The bear drive against the stock market was resumed at the start of trading Monday when prices of leading rails and industrials opened sharply lower. Improvement in the credit outlook, as reflected in the large increase in local bank reserves, failed to check the selling movement which sent General Motors, Dupont Allied Chemical, General Asphalt American Can and Atchafalaya 1 to 4 points lower.

Growing concern over the reduced market value of the cotton crop was blamed for the nervous tone of trading. Pressure was brought to bear against numerous specialties and investment securities such as Atchafalaya, Chesapeake and Ohio and Atlantic Coast Line, all of which developed pronounced weakness.

United States Steel sold at the lowest point since the final week of July and General Motors fell back around 150, more than 23 points under its recent high. Recessions of one to five points occurred in Atlantic Refining, Hudson, Coca Cola, Commercial Solvents, B. and Case Threshing Machine. A rally of 11 points in Italian lire to the highest level of the year featured the irregular opening of the foreign exchange market.

BEARS RULE MARKET

With the renewal rate for call loans advanced to 5 per cent and inability to answer margin calls causing free selling by commission houses, bear operators had matters pretty much their own way in the forenoon. Some of the losses were substantial, particularly in those shares which customarily move very widely. United States Steel, Inland Steel, Commercial Solvents, B. and Case Threshing Machine, Dupont, Case Threshing Machine, Coca Cola and South Porto Rico Sugar 4 to 1/2.
